ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11.59 P. M. until Thursday, April 28, 1921, at 10 o'clock A. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, April 27, 1921.

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Samuel A. Whitaker) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. H. Feldmann, offered the following prayer:

O blessed Lord, Thou Thyself hast commanded us, saying, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not." Therefore, we lay before Thy throne of grace our petition in behalf of the children of this State and of all states—they who are unconsulted concerning their advent, their parentage or their environment; who live ofttimes in homes of ignorance, prejudice and vice; who have no experience and no knowledge and no physical force whereby they can defend themselves. Concerning all this, they are in Thy hands, but we beseech Thee that Thou wilt so order the ways of the State that their schooling and their environment where they can control shall always be of the highest and the best. May they have teachers who have a passion for justice, and may they have a spirit of love for child life. May they be spared from the rapacity of grinding employers, and may the dens of infamy and vice be closed, that the State may have a blooming childhood and a prosperous and a promising manhood for the future. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on the motion of Mr. Goodnough, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 352.

An Act making an appropriation to the Westmoreland Hospital Association of Greensburg Pennsylvania

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, page 1, line 4 by striking out the words "twenty-eight" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "forty-eight" also by striking out the words and figures "five hundred ($28,500)" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "($45,000)"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McCaig, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain why the Senate, that is if you know, has changed this, or has amended this bill to change the appropriation from twenty-eight thousand to forty-five thousand dollars, an increase of seventeen thousand dollars?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I would refer the gentleman to the Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and see what explanation he may have.

Mr. ALEXANDER. As Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House what amount was recommended by the Board of Public Charities for this institution?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I cannot tell you without looking at the book.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, what amount was recommended to the Appropriations Committee of the House for that hospital?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, the information is just as available to you as it is to any member of the committee. You have the book which tells you what they asked for.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I am asking you as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. You are supposed to know something about that.

Mr. McCAIG. I would refer you to the book published by the State Board of Charities.

Mr. ALEXANDER. You do not know then what the State Board of Charities recommended? You do not know what amount they published in their book.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will confine his remarks and direct them through the Chair. He is not allowed to examine the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. The Chair permitted the examination of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, as long as he made the proper interrogation. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I have nothing more to say, sir.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11:30 A. M. having arrived, the Chair lays before the House as a Special Order, House Bill No. 1687, (Senate Bill No. 882), on third reading and final passage.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1687, (Senate Bill No. 882), entitled:

An Act to empower the Public Service Commission to require railroad corporations to employ an adequate number of men upon trains and to repeal an act approved the nineteenth day of June nineteen hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws ten hundred and fifty-three) entitled "An act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to ask the sponsor of the bill or somebody to explain the merits of the bill, who can do so. I desire at this time to have somebody explain the merits of the bill. It is a Senate Bill but no doubt somebody in the House will respond and explain the merits and the reasons for the repeal of this bill. Not seeing anybody arise, I take it for granted that there is no merit in the repeal of this bill. I rise to protest as a member of this Legislature to take away from the statute books that law that takes men off the trains who serve the general public and who serve the members of this House, who go on those trains to come to this Legislature. I am not speaking here, gentlemen, from theory or from hearsay. I have the practical experience—twenty-five years, and working on the railroad trains twenty-one years; not in one capacity but from the yardman to the brakeman, passenger brakeman, passenger conductor and yardmaster. I have never in my time and up to five or six years ago seen the time when there was more than one man called as an extra man to serve on a train and only then when the regular man was laid off. Twenty-five years ago I went to work as a boy on the railroad and I placed my life in jeopardy in helping to haul stuff across the land from the different industries. I talk of those dangers, but fortunately I never was injured, but oh, gentlemen, what I have seen; box cars loaded with the arms and legs of men who sacrificed their lives by the hundreds in one division on which I worked for the want of more men on the crew. I will tell you how that bill was placed on the statute books; the railroad men were compelled to put it there. They came along taking men off as the trains grew bigger, as the engines grew bigger, and as you know, the men could never grow any bigger and they wanted to take a few more men off so that they could kill a couple more. In 1911 the railroad men were forced to come before this body to place upon the pages of the statute books of Pennsylvania the law which is termed, the "Full Crew Bill," which provides only for what they always had, four men; that is the least they had on the crew, or some or five or six since it went into effect. The bill reads twenty-nine cars; that is, one man for twenty-nine cars. That leaves them the engineer and fireman, the two brakemen, the conductor and the flagman, who is the man who has to give signals on road crossings when you and I want to pass and many of you men know that, and many times he is arrested for not doing it. You men from the rural districts know that there is here a lobby of men who are seeking your vote. They don't know any more about the full crew than you do; don't know anything about the handling of trains. They come from the offices of the companies. They are nice men and good men in their places, and they are sent down here by their companies to take away the safeguards of the man who works upon the trains; to take away the safeguards from you. Let us see? You have many communications throughout the State from these men. Let us see what they tell you? They don't tell you a word about the freight trains; they admit there are not enough men on the freight trains. The only argument they have is, that there are laws on the statute books to protect you and to protect me and they say, "Look at our passenger trains; there are four men there and one extra man." You fellows who come from Philadelphia and other sections of the State can verify exactly what I tell you. When they get on the train the front man is stationed by to take orders from the engineer and conductor on his position and the rules of the company verify this. He is placed in the position that he has to take on the train; see to it that the air hose are all coupled and in working order before the train starts. The middle man, when the train starts goes out with the conductor. Now, all of you gentlemen just take note and see how easy the job on a railroad train is. As I have said before, the middle man goes out with the conductor and does as much work as the conductor, because it takes two men to go through a crowd of twelve to sixteen coaches to collect the tickets before they get to the next stop. If they do stop in between, he immediately releases himself from the custody of the conductor and goes back and takes the place of the flagman to protect the lives of the passengers on that trian, and then they tell you there is one man too many on the train. It is not true. They tell you it is an extra cost. Four years ago we paid six dollars to go from here to Pittsburgh; to-day we pay almost ten dollars. A railroad man to-day receives four dollars and something a day. Can you imagine that thirty-nine dollars pays the entire crew for the division on that train, the engineer included, and four passengers pay the whole crew, and then they still want to take a man off that train because they say it is an extra cost. Some of you gentlemen will agree with me and verify it that your underground system in Philadelphia has a man on every car, for three cars, and the fare is only five cents. They can afford to pay it and make money and there is no argument as far as expense is concerned. Gentlemen, I appeal to you; I appeal to this House, if you men would go out and watch a man breaking up a train, starting out on the road, you would not come back here and vote against this bill. You would not vote for it and there is not a man in this House that would do it. They appeal to you men from the rural districts that it is not the danger that occurs in the life of railroad men that is to be considered. There are only two occupations, that I told you about a week ago, that are more dangerous in the United States: They are, bell diving and balloon ascension; nobody will take these jobs. Mr. Speaker, I am going to conclude and I appeal to the members of this House as one that has had the experience; as one that has had the knowledge, as one that hopes that it won't come back to your door if you vote to repeal this bill. Let me say to you that you might be the first one to lose your life for the want of that one man on the train. I appeal to you to vote against this repeal.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I was in hopes that the amendment offered yesterday would have prevailed so that I could have voted for this bill. In talking with one of the gentlemen interested in the railroads I asked him why they were objecting to this amendment. He said that the Legislature of 1911 had said that for the protection of life it was necessary to have these trains manned in the way fixed by this act when it was adopted, but they come in now and say, all that is wrong; it is not necessary. Therefore, we ask the Legislature to say that we shall have the right to show that fact through the process of a court of mediation which they have suggested and chosen in the Public Service Commission." I said to that, "Then why don't you prove that through the Public Service Commission? Why don't you show that to the Commission? Why should not the burden be on you to show that it was not necessary?" He said, "That is the act they have over in Jersey and find that it is not at all satisfactory because they have a hard job to show the Public Service Commission that it is not necessary." That is one of the strongest arguments that can be used against this bill; if it is hard for those corporations in New Jersey to show the Public Service Commission, which is the commission of the people, to show that the full crew law is unnecessary; if it is hard for those corporations to show that it is not necessary; they who have in their hands that power, with all the data in their hands, everything in detail which they can submit and much else much better than the brakemen or the conductor or the engineer or flagman who do not have the time, it is much easier for the company to show to the Public Service Commission conditions as they prevail than for the man who has to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. I say to this answer of these corporations that when you talk to them and ask them why they were not in favor of a fair adjustment between the trainmen and the railroad men on this bill, their answer is that it is unnecessary. If we talk to the trainmen their answer is, we are going to defeat the bill, and that is the only answer you get,—defeat the act. I ask the question, why cannot we show to the Public Service Commission that it is necessary to have the trains manned or why cannot the railroad companies show the Public Service Commission with everything they have at hand that it is unnecessary? I will say this, that if I had been on the floor of this House in 1911 when this bill was passed, looking backward, perhaps I would have voted against this bill, because I am opposed to this thing of the Legislature controlling and regulating business corporations. But that is in the past, and I say now, why is it that it cannot be shown that it is necessary or unnecessary. Perhaps there are some trains on which this number of men are not necessary; perhaps there are some trains consisting of only one car and yet that train must take so many men. But perhaps that is not an answer, because when you take a long string of cars the corporation can show to the Public Service Commission, which is the commission to adjust these conditions that it would be hard to show, which they would be obliged to show, that it is not necessary, but this does not apply to a train with but one car. It has been said here that they have trouble in an adjoining State in showing the Public Service Commission that it is not necessary to man a train with as many men as the full crew bill calls for. Mr. Speaker, I think I hold in my hand data which gives a reason why they cannot show that it is unnecessary. For instance, in a hundred miles or less, eight hours or less constitutes a day. To run a freight train of fifty cars costs the railroad $39.59 every day It costs to run a freight train loaded with manure from Allegheny, a distance of twenty-six miles, with 68,700 pounds at $1.68 rate per ton $57.71 freight. Now, there are forty-nine other cars loaded on that train, yet to carry that whole train costs, so far as labor is concerned, the figure given before, $39.59. Is it any wonder that they cannot show to the Public Service Commission that it is not necessary that this law must be repealed and that they will go into bankruptcy, if it is not repealed. Again, we will take a passenger train running between New York and Washington, a distance of 225 miles. The expense as far as labor is concerned on that account with the engineer and fireman and brakemen is $8.79. Does it seem as if the amount paid for the brakemen and the entire crew, the great sum of $58.62, for a train of ten cars from New York to Washington, taking up the fare of $8.79 each, for that train of ten cars averaging thirty passengers in each car, a total of 300 passengers, the total would be $2,637.00. Do you wonder that they have trouble in showing to the Public Service Commission that some of these trains should not be manned as they have been manned. All I asked for, as far as that amendment is concerned, was that it was a fair minimum, and the case was clear that your life and my life should be properly preserved. We know what they do; we know what the electric companies are doing all over this State and there has been a bill here providing that they shall be properly manned, and there is one company operating in my county for which a bill was presented providing that a car be manned by two instead of one man. What happened? It died in committee. Why don't they want to man those cars with two men instead of one? This same argument has been advanced as far as freight trains are concerned. Unless this company will agree to this minimum, which is a fair minimum, that they may show to the Public Service Commission, which is a court of mediation which they have chosen, and which is a proper court, to decide it. They are the people who have in their hands the data and know the circumstances and all the facts pertaining to the same. They are the people on whom should be placed the burden to show to the Public Service Commission if it is unnecessary to continue the full crew on trains, especially after the Legislature said that it was necessary, unless the corporations, the railroads, would agree that that should be amended so that the burden will be shifted on them which is the proper burden for them to carry and because they are the proper people to carry it and I say this House should vote down this bill.

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Speaker, I regret very much the fact that this bill came before this body for consideration. I want to say frankly to you that I have given it more study and more thought than any other bill at this or the past session. I want to say, as a preliminary remark, that I am not biased toward labor nor toward capital. I like the honest poor man and the honest rich man; all men to me are identically the same. I want to say as a preliminary remark that I came to this House unpledged on all subjects. My only declaration ever presented was this: "Fairness for all and favors for none," and as I speak and as I vote this morning I will so do out of the promptings of my judgment and out of the feelings of my heart without any consideration whatever in regard to what influence it may have upon me politically, financially or otherwise in the days that are to come. I have a word to say in regard to the railroads: The railroads, as we know, are absolutely essential for the welfare of our country. The owners and the operators of the railroads are not without sin and have not been without sin. The early history of the building and development of the railroads in many respects is not enviable. I know how they were built and how they were overbonded; how they watered their stock and how they resisted ofttimes very strenuously all campaigns for betterment until they were forced to accept them. As a record of their activity what effect did it have upon the country? One great railroad man one time said when the people were mentiond to him, "Damn the people," and the people lived to damn him. No man can damn public sentiment; that gun will turn upon him and shoot him whether he is the poorest or the richest or the strongest or the weakest man in the entire United States. Now, gentlemen I say that as a result of these things the public became incensed; the public became, in a sense, unbalanced; the public began to legislate against the railroads. It was exceedingly popular in speaking for the galleries to shout, "Down with the railroads." We know that they legislated against the railroads until they almost ruined them; we know that minds were biased; that there was a time when it was almost impossible for a railroad company to appear before a court and get justice; when a claim was to be settled, there was such a bias and such a prejudice as that, and as a result of it, this went on with the railroads being pushed into hard straits. What did they do then? I sought my information not on this floor; not from those who I hear, on either side of the question, but from those on the outside. I sought my information as I mingled with employes on our trains; as I passed back and forth and I got my financial information, mainly, from the President of one of the great life insurance companies that I chanced to meet who did not know that this bill was up here for consideration. I said to him, "Is it a fact that the railroads are hard pressed?" He said, "It is a fact and I know it from observation and experience; through the corporations that to a large extent depend upon us for money." This I know. Now, friends, if this is true it behooves us to consider this measure wisely and from every possible angle Here are the employes of the railroads. I want to say this, frankly: Never do a thing that will enable the public to say that you have been in one iota on any one question unjust or that you have demanded a penny that is not your own. I can say this, that if it is a case of fifty-fifty the proposition in the end results that fifty-one per cent. will always be and always has been with the strong. I am to-day in favor of the repeal of this full crew bill, and I want to tell you first why. I have learned from folks outside of here and we know that the full crew law causes certain men to be carried to-day who are unnecessary. We know that it was said in an argument here just yesterday why should they carry unnecessary men and if they should carry five hundred men who are unnecessary, can they stand it? Friends, we must deal with corporations as we deal with other people for corporations are nothing but companies of people. We must deal with them as we deal with individuals. Do you want me to carry an unnecessary load? No you don't. Then should a corporation? A company of men and women who own the stock? I don't believe that any man should carry an unnecessary ounce of weight. I do believe any company should have their rights and to my mind they are identically the same. Now, railroad men, employers and employes, face that question fairly. If you have one unnecessary man, don't demand that he shall stay. If business all along the line is unnecessarily loaded, what will it mean? It will mean that they will not be able to buy steel rails to start the factories, and what is the result? They will not be able to employ men and haul that stuff. I am in business now on a very limited scale; it was imperatively necessary for me to do away with unnecessary men, because as a result of keeping them the rest would have suffered and we could not have kept any of them if we had not permitted some of them to go. Now that is true; they would suffer a little. Men, I am running my little business this year economically and I know that I will not make one dollar, and as a matter of fact, I expect to lose some. Hear me, employers and employes, get together. Let us so lay aside every waste; let us do unto others as we would have them do unto us. Employer and employe, you will never get close together as long as one is grasping and the other is grasping or both are grasping at the same time. You have to sit down and argue this out on the bed rock of justice or righteousness whether it pinches the employer or the employe. Is not that right? Hear me, men, this Public Service Commission is a court of mediation. I have nothing against any man and I could say nothing against them, but their program is cluttered up. If I were offering a substitute if you men on both sides cannot get together to settle your differences, why don't you insist on having a board of mediation appointed or established composed of two employes who know the work from their side, and two employers who know the work from their side, and a fifth party who is absolutely impartial, and let that board deal with the subject before them that is not in the bill and first and foremost let them get together and sit down and reason together. I believe you will say we are doing this for the safety of the people. I believe the employers have as big a heart as the employe. We are all made of the same mud. Let us recognize, men, that the employer is interested in the safety of the public; surely he has to pay the bill and surely I believe in the repeal of the full crew law all along the line I believe it to the extent that it should apply to the very highest office in the railroad company and if you have got some unnecessary fellows up there, hot house plants, my advice to you is that you get them out of the business, and if they can only pound stone why, have them pound stone. Ratify all along the line. I am going a little further and say this morning as this is probably the last time I will ever make a speech in this Hall, I believe this House should repeal the full crew law all along the line and lay aside every unnecessary burden and waste and that we get down to a normal basis. This is business only that we are to begin with in the care of the factories and the farms and the homes why we must get business on a normal basis, and until we do start to go up, and it is not as a prophet that I speak, but I say compared with the past days of prosperity in this country that when we once get started after having gone down, in a new era of at least ten or fifteen years, then our factories and our institutions who may have suffered should get to a general level for the better and I believe in the full repeal of the full crew law right here on capitol hill. We have heard remarks here in regard to superfluous men in certain departments of the capitol. Let us begin at Jerusalem; let us begin right here. I note that right here in this House we have employes that could not flag a freight train or a snail, for some of them have never been here. We know that, but we dont like to acknowledge it. I believe we should take every unnecessary man away from here, away from every department in this government. I believe that we should just employ as many boys and as many sergeants-at-arms and as many postmasters as are needed and no more, and that they should have a just and reasonable wage. That is good business and that is good politics. I don't pose as a reformer. When I get reformers around me I lock up the chicken coop every time, put the key in my pocket and keep my hands tight on my pocketbook. I am talking horse sense to you. We are all to blame; no individual is to blame. This system has just come to you and no one in particular is to be blamed; we are all to blame, not because we are crooked but just careless. We have to clean house and if we don't clean house some other folks will clean house and top things up and scratch things because they have not been in the habit of cleaning house themselves. I say this, that I have thought seriously over these things and I say, cut out all this; cut it out. "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to God the things that are God's." Be on the square, employers and employes, and men who toil on the trains, let me tell you if they repeal this bill to-day and the railroads come and do the square things you said you would; now do Public Service Commission and I will go up and down this land and preach with all my soul the message, "Railroads come and do the squar things you said you would; now do it. If you don't you will be damned for not doing it." Business has to come down to the bed rock of justice and economy; justice that is right here and everywhere. That is all I have to say, and I am saying this because I believe at this time that the railroads have seventy per cent. of the argument—I believe it from the bottom of my heart. Men, if you will say I am done, politically, I don't care. I say that kindly and I say it carefully, and whenever I can practice justice as I see it and play it in politics, I will go to the platform where I can at least preach it.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lawrence says that when any reformers are around he locks his chickens in a coop. I believe if he takes the interests of the workers before the commission, as it is now, they would take him for a reformer and lock the coop before he got through. He presents an argument that the railroad departments and the employers of labor should get together. We made an attempt to get together here yesterday by presenting an amendment, and our friends were so interested in bringing both sides together that they sat dumbfounded and never raised a voice in that direction. He said that last night we tried to get together. Let us do as President Harding has said: "Let us meet conditions as they are; let us bring harmony between labor and industry." I fail to see the argument of the gentleman from Lawrence where the repeal of this act will bring harmony. I fail to see it. In 1917 this bill came before this Assembly with a different suit of clothes upon it at that time. To-day we are coming down and back to normalcy. In 1917 the argument was, the stars and stripes, repeal this bill now; after the war is over we will give you back the repeal of this law; now the war is over. When the boys came home from France the railroad companies, as well as all the rest of us, decorated the trains and met them with bands and glorified the victory they had won on the other side. We banqueted them and after we had banqueted them and displayed our patriotism we then took their jobs away from them. That is the patriotism we showed the boys that fought over the seas. Get back to normalcy and back to common sense; that is what we want to get. We know who is behind this repealer. It is not the railroad companies altogether; it has behind it men from among the Chambers of Commerce and manufacturers associations, who wish to destroy the labor movement; and it is not the first time that they have attempted to destroy it. Let me show you men that the intention of the amendment offered here yesterday was to put the burden of proof on the other side. If the friends of this bill were sincere they would have permitted the amendment to go in and throw the burden of proof on those men who are more able to stand it. Talk about getting back to normalcy; how are we going to get back? There are two thousand men with two thousand families starving. How are you going to get back to narmalcy just because the railroad company is not getting enough funds? We are willing and the railroaders have been satisfied in agreeing that they don't want to be placed on any train where they are not needed; they don't want to accept a position and money if they are doing nothing, and that is why they presented this amendment yesterday. It is only a question of the railroad companies taking up the case before the Public Service Commission. They know as well as you that it would take them months and months before they would get a case through the Public Service Commission. I wish to say this to you: That I have nothing against the Public Service Commission, but as a Governor of this State wrote to the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor on other cases he said, "I regret very much that labor is not represented on the Public Service Commission." Our friend from Lawrence who was defending here, a few months ago, the daylight saving bill for the grangers of this State, referred to the fact that they had no representative on this commission. What do you want to do? Do you want us laboring men to submit everything to the other side and give us no representation upon the commission? I say to you, friends, it is unfair, but guard you well; get back to normalcy; the discontent you are arousing by the unfair attitude which you took yesterday will not bring you back to normalcy. President Lincoln said in Hartford, Connecticut, after the civil war when they were striving to get back to normalcy. 'Thank God, the worker has the privilege to strike." This was after they had received injustice at the hands of the Legislature. What do you want? You tried to repeal this bill during the war. You are unfair with it in this House. Do you want to arouse the discontent, not only of the railroad men of this country but do you wish to arouse the discontent of the workers throughout the country? Our friend from Lawreuce has said that he got his information from men on the trains. God bless you. Yes, you can get that kind of information, because our own men have told our men on the trains to be very careful what they say to the passengers on the trains because the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and other companies have hundreds of spotters going among their employes to spot them out so that when this law is passed they will be the first to be asked to leave. Talk about Judas. Why, my friend of the gospel, you had a little Judas in that little supper that our Savior had with twelve men when one of them was a Judas. Gentlemen, he sold the Savior for thirty pieces of silver, but, after all, old Judas had some good traits in him. He was a man in some respects different from some people who can only see one side. He took those thirty pieces of silver and he looked at them and he got ashamed and he said, "My God, what have I done? I have sold the Savior." And he became so ashamed that he pushed the thirty pieces of silver away and said he didn't want it; it was dirt money; but when compared with some of the men who are employes of the railroad companies; compared with some of the stool-pigeons who are in the employ of the railroads, these men would not throw the thirty pieces of silver away. Judas, in that respect, was far superior and a better caliber of man because he went to a hardware store and bought a piece of rope and hanged himself and saved the State the expense of doing it. Coming back to normalcy: Yes, they will say, but labor has advanced with the machinery they have perfected; they have perfected machines for labor; they have invented machines but the inventor even then always got the worst of it. You can ruin labor; you can ruin the working classes until you must run them into the scrap pile. If you will overburden them you will run them into the scrap pile. Remember, you have got to take care of the working people of this country because no nation is any stronger than its poverty. In other words, "no chain is stronger than its weakest link." Remember that and look how careful we are of the machinery that does our work. You take the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and I give them credit for this fact, that when they get a nice new engine and new cars they protect them. Take that engine and they take good care of it; put the best man they can get on it because they know that if they work that engine night and day it will soon break down and go into the scrap pile, never to produce again. That is true of the human machine; if you tantalize it and overdrive it and run the wheels on that human machine night and day all the time that human machine breaks down, goes into the scrap pile and never produces again. I hope and trust that the report is not true that during the war there were more men killed on the railroads of the United States than those who were killed in the American Army in France. I say to you, if you repeal this law, because of that repeal there will come a reckoning and I hope that will prey upon your conscience and that you will stand right. Let us be careful. The railroaders are satisfied to take off men where they are not necessary, but you would not permit them to put an amendment in this bill yesterday. I have no ill feeling against any man in this House. I have been treated with a great deal of courtesy during this past session. I have nothing against any man in here and when the session ends I will be just as good a fellow as the rest of you who go out. I want you, to-day, if I have antagonized you on other measures, if I have been opposed to you, remember that I am only like yourself speaking in the interests of what I think is right and, like my friend from Lawrence, justice is all I ask. I say, this is not justice but an injustice to repeal this law.

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say just one word. I have been classified a good many times and I have this to say, that nobody ever in my life dared to offer me a penny and no man in this House or anywhere in politics has ever brought to bear upon me one particle of pressure; not once. I say this: I have enough of the old revolutionary blood of 1812 in my favor not to be afraid of anything and all the money or all the men in America could not influence me if I feel that I am right. I may be wrong, but if I feel that I am right, I am going on and I am not going to get white if the old devil himself were to come down the isle. I think I would take him by the tail and make him howl if I felt that I was right. I will say to the geuetleman from Lackawanna, I will fight your cause if I think you are right and if you are wrong or if I feel that you are wrong and cannot show me otherwise I will fight with all my might as against any other man

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jordan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Do you own stock in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company?

Mr. JORDAN. I am sorry to say I don't. I don't own a dollar's worth of stock in any company under the sun.

Mr. PHILLIPS. What would it cost the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at the present time—or how much would it increase the value of that stock if this bill were repealed?

Mr. JORDAN. It does not matter whether it would increase the value of the stock one penny or twelve million dollars, but the principle is, if there is any cause for not paying out one penny, unnecessarily there is just as much justification for not paying it out whether the profit is large or small.

Mr. PHILLIPS. What does the full crew bill cost the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to-day?

Mr. JORDAN. I have had the figures from both sides given to me and may I answer you again that I am not to be weighed in the balance with dollars and cents, but with right and wrong. If you should hunt for anything else you wouldn't find it.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Is it not a fact that when the full crew bill was passed—when the original was passed—it was passed for the benefit of the safety of the people of Pennsylvania?

Mr. JORDAN. That was their understanding, yes, sir.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Is it true now?

Mr. JORDAN. I will say now as I have said in my remarks, that I have been informed that there were unnecessary men on some of the trains.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Will it decrease the freight rates or the passenger rates if the full crew bill is repealed?

Mr. JORDAN. If you take a dollar for unnecessary expense from the hauling of freight, it will be decreased to that extent. It will be a business necessity whether the freight or passenger rates will be decreased or not.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Are you satisfied that the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Mr. Rea, should receive $100,000 when the full crew bill is not in force and with the decrease in expense, are you satisfied that there should be a decrease in his salary?

Mr. JORDAN. It should to the extent that they would decrease salaries elsewhere.

Mr. PHILLIPS. If his salary were reduced together with that of the vice-president and other officers, that would add some towards financial relief?

Mr. JORDAN. I think the salary of the president and other officers is a little bit steep, just as one man wrote me the other day and said my salary was a little high for a legislator.

Mr. PHLLIPS. Did the gentleman from Lawrence agree with the man that it was so?

Mr. JORDAN. Yes, sir, of course I did, after being associated with you.

Mr. PHILLIPS. A statement was made yesterday when this amendment was presented that there were 2300 men included in the full crew bill. That statement was made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walker, in which I think he was mistaken. From the data which I hold in my hand and also from representations by the Pennsylvania Company, there are 1700 men included among the men who are affected by this full crew bill. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walker, made that mistake and I want to correct that: There are only 1700 men in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, according to their own figures, included in this bill in the State of Pennsylvania. I hold in my hand the time checks and I think the time reports of the road trainmen for the month of March, from the conductor and brakeman, and I would submit this to any one that wants it. It gives the salaries of the conductors and brakemen for the month of March. That will apply naturally to January, February and March, approximately, for this year. I want to submit to the members of this House what affects thirty per cent. of the 1700 men included in the full crew bill, in regard to what effect it will have on the passenger rates and on the freight rates, and what effect it will have on the people of Pennsylvania, when we consider that the safety of the Public is at stake. This bill was passed for a safety measure and every measure that has been passed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company or any other railroad company has been compelled by act of Assembly, mainly the automatic coupler and air brake. All these things they have been compelled to adopt and they were adopted and applied together with this full crew act through act of Assembly. This bill provides for the safety of the travelling people of this State and in view of that fact I want to ask some one who can answer the question bearing on the requirements of the railroad companies at this time. I want to say to you that the only reason why opposition comes to this is because it is put on the statute books by a labor organization.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I stated to you yesterday that there were 2300 employes included in the full crew or affected by the full crew act. In 1911 there were 1700 but to-day there are 2300. The figures presented by the gentleman who has just spoken are the figures of 1911. May I say, in passing, that I hope, as I am not a stockholder in any railroad company nor am I employed by any railroad company, that I speak on behalf of my constituency which is opposed to the act of 1911 as a burden on the people who manufacture and to the public. Reference has been made to-day to the adoption of the automatic coupler and of the air brake. I don't know whether you know it or not, but that act was pushed through Congress and several State Legislatures by the concerns that manufactured the automatic coupler and the air brake. It was true and it is true that it was a safety measure and we all know it. The gentleman from Lackawanna has issued today a beautiful eulogy, but there is one thing that he has failed to tell you or read to us. He assures us that Judas Iscariot was a thief and that he carried the bag. That is the exact phraseology for if he was a thief and it was the best thing that is given us in the history of the world, that Judas Iscariot gave us an example for all thieves to find a piece of rope and find an oak tree and hang himself. Reference has been made to the accidents that have happened. I have the figures here to the effect that forty-eight trainmen were killed during the first six months of 1911 before the law went into effect and 3,498 were injured, and in the same period in 1911 the number of passengers killed by falling from cars or getting on or off cars was a total of six, making a grand total of killed in the six months before the law went into effect in 1911, fifty-four. The total number of passengers injured during the first six months of 1911 was 303, making a total of 2,601 of trainmen and passengers. After the law went into effect, for the first six months of 1914 the number of trainmen killed was thirty-two and the number of passengers was three, making a total of thirty-five, and the number of trainmen injured after the law went into effect, was 3,239 and the total number of passengers injured was 362, making it a total of 3,601. During the last three years the number of passengers and trainmen killed on eighteen railroads was 281, or twenty more than in the period of 1908 to 1910 inclusive. Similarly the number injured was 5,150 an increase of just 900. Will you tell me, therefore, that if the passage of this law has reduced the catastrophes to people because of one full crew man with these figures taken from the records of this State and New Jersey and from nineteen other railroads in all the states. Reference has been made to the importance in this State of this one man. During the influenza, in 1918, in one railroad yard sixty yard men who did not have the influenza were engaged to brake trains and they did not know anything about braking trans. However, they were taken out of the yard and put on the trains and rode backward and forward in the cabooses in order to comply with the law. If that could be done in 1918 without any excuse, but merely because the law must be supported, I submit that this is evidence of the fact that the law as it stands is not needed. The error as I have it in the act of 1911 is in its unfairness. To-day there has been a plea made to save this train man. They belong to one union. Railroad conductors have another union; railroad engineers and firemen have another union, but they are not considered in the Full Crew Act, and you and I, representing the public, when we get on a train do we look to the man who sits in the front car and is a full crew man or wanders up and down the aisle behind the conductor holding his checks or punching a long strip of paper—do we consider him the man who saves our lives and watches over us as we travel? The hero on all trains is the man in the righthand side of the cab who holds the throttle and who sees to it that the semaphor is not against him; the man who, time and time again, has been found dead in his cabin, and were it not for certain regulations enforced for the government, many and many a time the railroad company would have a wreck which is avoided by the enforcement of this law which requires that the passenger locomotive fireman should be in a position to relieve the engineer in case the engineer is injured or dies in his cab. We look on him as the guiding hand that carries us from the start to the end of our journey, and he is not provided for in the Full Crew Act. Is it fair to him? I don't think you will say that it is a fair act. Take, for example the tower man who keeps in order certain semaphores at crossovers and they have no full crew provision, and yet it is they who pass to the engineer the word of warning or of danger and no one relieves them. Is it fair that if the Full Crew Act was fair in the beginning it should not cover the locomotive engineers and firemen by putting on an extra fireman when they go up the hill and have to shovel coal; the man who stands there shoveling alone, watches his fires, his steam gauge and the other apparatus under his control and who keeps his eye on the engineer at the same time? I submit to you that this act was not fair when it was passed in 1911 because it did not include the man who really looks after the destiny of the people in whose charge he is placed. It has been said that the railroad companies merely represent a group. The same rule that applies to individuals should apply to a group. We should not say because there are three or five or fifteen hundred positions involved that the law shall be different or that we shall differ in our treatment of them. I submit to you that when we take this bill and review it, we find that it places the power with fifty-five hundred stockholders who are interested and we should play fair with them, and we should therefore consider it meritorious. Examine this act with this bill that we have before us to-day. What do we find under its provisions? There is no employer or employee in the State of Pennsylvania that is as honestly and fairly cared for. What other group of men is given the right to go before the Public Service Commission and say "You are or you are not running your trains safely"? You are taking off a crew instead of taking off the man. As I told you yesterday, they have a chance to go before the commission and say, "You are running your trains dangerously, and we demand an extra man or two." Under this act the Public Service Commission could put ten men on a train, if the commission felt that the State of Pennsylvania should be better taken care of and the number should be increased that they may order it and they do it at times to-day. The gentleman from Lackawanna has referred to the remark of the gentleman from Lawrence in regard to mediation. He knows as well as I do the benefits of the voluntary mediation board in the anthracite and bituminous coal fields when the employer and the employee got together and adjusted their grievances. The same thing can be done on this subject if they want to do it and work hard enough for it. Let me call your attention to another matter, and I will try to make it pretty clear in your minds, and every man no doubt knows that if there were a necessity for an extra full crew man he would be employed, from the fact that the railroad company transports passengers and when an accident happens, who pays for the loss of limb or life or property of the passengers? The railroad company. Then, do you suppose that the railroad company will take a chance on losing a half million dollars in the way of damages through an accident? And when a man is actually needed on a freight train, do you suppose that the railroad company which carries a half million dollars worth of freight on a single train would subject itself to damage suits or would for an instance take off a man who was necessary without whom that train might be injured and that freight or those goods lost and stand the damages? Put that proposition up to any business man—why of course he would take no such action; he would laugh at you in scorn. You would not do it, neither would any other individual. Gentlemen, this law will give the railroad company and the State laws that they never had before; the right to go in and show that one man is not enough; that two men may not be enough; that three or four or five men would be necessary. Furthermore, this bill, as business starts to pick up, removes the possibility of entire crews being discharged and give many a man not at labor to-day a chance for something to do and do it. The question has been asked by the gentleman from Clearfield of the gentleman from Lawrence regarding the reduction of the salaries of some of the high-paid officers. I wish to say in referring to that the public prints came out a few weeks ago, stating that salaries from the president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company down were reduced. The public press told us that their salaries had been reduced. I don't know how much, and I don't care, but it shows that there is reduction all along the line. It seems to me that if we want to give labor what they want, a fair and square deal, not merely the brakeman, but the locomotive engineer and the fireman and the conductor should get the benefit of any advantage the same as the brakeman and the flagman is given that right. I submit that labor could not have a fair bill, no matter what was tried now or hereafter unless it applied to all of the men on the train. I submit that this bill should have our favorable votes.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following: Messrs. Baldi, Bell, Bower, Glass, Harry, Heffernan, Jordan, Love, McCarthy, McGowen, Marcus, Pike, Roman, Schaeffer, Lee Smith, Sprowls, Stevens, Stevenson, George T. Walker, Zook and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. SMINK. Mr. Speaker, you have heard the merits of this bill debated both pro and con. This bill has been referred to as a labor measure, and in the sense that it is a humanitarian bill aiding in protecting the safety of the traveling public especially and to all other persons whose duty may bring them in contact with the operation of the railroads, it is a labor measure and we are proud to lend our support to it. Our opponents, however, are trying to camouflage the bill by using the term labor measure, by trying to convey the impression that we are endeavoring to defeat the bill because it will possibly mean a lay-off of members of the rail brotherhoods. The railroad corporations themselves have stamped this law a labor measure in the past for their own selfish desires; they dare not ask its repeal upon a strict basis of economy because of the manifest good it has been and the many accidents it has prevented during the time it has been in force. Session after session the railroads have attacked this act with a repealer, always charging organized labor of being interested from a selfish standpoint, that it is now no wonder that it is recognized as such, and as a representative of organized labor I am indeed proud that organizations have been successful in the past in keeping this humanitarian act upon our statute books. This continued agitation, however, has been the means of bringing this act involved dear and near to the heart of every man connected with organized labor, and the railroad corporations realizing this have suggested this repealer, not from an economic standpoint, but as part of the nation-wide propaganda to destroy the rail brotherhoods and organized labor as a whole.

In 1918 there were 45 specific cases on the Pennsylvania alone where the extra man or the Full Crew Man had detected defects in the train which would possibly have caused wrecks. In numerous occasions the middle man on a passenger train or the Full Crew man as the Company terms him has saved the lives of children whom the parents have permitted to hang out of the open window. On August 29th, 1920, the Full Crew brakeman discovered car off center when about one-half way across Jersey Central bridge on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

I appeal to you, gentlemen of the House(to vote against this repeal measure, and thereby voice your belief in the proper protection of citizens of this Commonwealth and the honesty and integrity of organized labor.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. James A. Walker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Philadelphia to define what constitutes a full crew?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I understand that a full crew consists of a conductor, a flagman, a front flagman an engineer, a fireman and a middle man.

Mr. MANGAN. On what number of cars?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. I think that covers nine cars, —29 cars.

Mr. MANGAN. You are talking about freight trains, and I am talking about passenger trains. Do you mean to inform this body that the engineer is not included in the full crew?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. I understand that on very exceptional circumstances there is an extra locomotive engineer put on the train.

Mr. MANGAN. I would further ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what man on that crew he terms the extra man?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. As far as I know he is the fellow on the job that rode from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg with some of the men who are in this House and who talked the whole way about the repeal of this bill and who didn't do anything else but talk about this bill.

Mr. MANGAN. Will you kindly tell the House the name of the members that rode with that gentleman who has no duties to perform so that they can verify that statement,— the members from Pittsburgh that that man rode with?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. I am not going to give that information because it was given to me in confidence.

Mr. MANGAN Mr. Speaker, I would further interrogate the gentleman and ask him if he is aware of the fact that there is no brakeman that is employed who runs from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. He got off at Altoona, the members were coming to Harrisburg.

Mr. MANGAN. Somebody put you wise. I want to ask you whether you are aware of the fact that when a train stops on a railroad crossing, that the brakeman, under the rules of the company, is compelled to go out and open up that crossing?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. The brakeman? Yes.

Mr. MANGAN. The rear brakeman?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. The brakeman gets off and examined the crossings.

Mr. MANGAN. He opens the crossing.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Yes, I understand that is the duty of the brakeman on the train.

Mr. MANGAN. If you take that man off, who would you have to open the crossing?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. That is the duty of the brakeman to do that, not the full crew man.

Mr. MANGAN. My dear friend from Philadelphia, if they take that man off, who would do it?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. There are two men there, a man on the back and a man on the front. Why do you want a man on the train if that train is stopped?

Mr. MANGAN. If you were on a curve and if the man is opening up the crossing, who would you get to signal the man on the engine?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. The conductor takes care of that.

Mr. MANGAN. No, he don't.

Mr JAMES A. WALKER. Well, he used to.

Mr. MANGAN. Supposing the conductor is in the tower taking orders, where his duties require him to go?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. If the conductor was at the tower, as you say, taking orders, somebody would have to do it. I presume if that occurred regularly, there would be a man on the crossing.

Mr. MANGAN. But who would do it?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. The railroad would certainly see that no accident happened at that crossing.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to many speeches here of what the working men throughout the country did throughout the war times. I have listened to the brilliancy of the floor leader in his protection of the man who works, and he very plainly and clearly defined to you how well the miner went to work during war times, but the miner only works eight hours a day. The railroad man, during the war time, worked sixteen hours a day, in violation of the laws not only of your Commonwealth but of the United States,—the Adamson Law. We gave them sixteen hours a day. The others did a lot of work in eight hours a day, but the railroad man worked for sixteen hours every day during war times. These boys who move the trains went out with only one bucket, and they did not know when they started from Pittsburgh, where they were going. Sometimes they went clear to Chicago with only one meal in their bucket and no money in their pockets, with no provision made by the railroad company to give them something to eat. If it had not have been for the Brotherhood with its little treasury, they could not have been supplied with meals. Now you want to take that away from us. Did anybody come here in 1919 and ask for a repeal? Why not? Because they did not dare. These men were out working two days, every one of them, in one. The gentleman from Philadelpha said that they took twenty-five yard men and put them on the trains. He does not know the definition of a yard man. A yard man is a man who works harder than any other man on the railroads. He makes up and brakes trains.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, that was simply said in error, when I said yard men, I mean track men.

Mr. MANGAN. Pardon me. I will tell you gentlemen that ever since the Full Crew Law became effective, the railroads have endeavored to reduce the number of men, or to take one man off. They took one man off a train on which I was the conductor. From the want of that one man I saw a boy cut to pieces, just for the want of a signal to the engineer. If that man had been on that train, the man which they took off, that boy would probably be alive to-day. I ask you gentlemen in all fairness to the railroad man and to the general public to vote down this repealer.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest to the members of the House and to the members interested on both sides of these questions that the list of speakers has been completed and a number of others have already been heard.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I just want to make a statement in regard to our friend from Lawrence. The Judas story did not affect him at all. I had no reference to anybody in the House, only to those whom I know were employed by the railroad company as "lickspittles" and who are the lapdogs of the corporations.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walker.

The SPEAKER. If this discussion continues much longer, it will be necessary for the Chair to enforce the rule which prohibits any member speaking more than twice on the same subject.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, no answer has been given yet to my proposition that it is only a fair proposition that the railroad companies prove the necessity of removing the man—

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the question submitted by the gentleman from Delaware is not before the House, having been determined negatively yesterday.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, my proposition was and is still before the House and it is germane to the issue here, notwithstanding the learned gentleman from Philadelphia. He has told you that you should vote for this bill because the railroad companies do not obey the law, because the railroads instead of putting men on their trains as they are compelled to do, have filled their cabins with men that know nothing about running cars. That is just like giving every liquor man and every hotel man a license because they do not obey the law. One is just as guilty as the other. He says they will take the trains off if this bill is not passed. Show me the fellow on the Pennsylvania Railroad, or anywhere else, who, to save an expense of $58.62 is going to lose $2,689. What foolish talk is that to talk to men with some sense. He says he is not interested. He is a member of the bar of Philadelphia and is pretty active. It is very nice to look forward to the day, after we have stood on the floor of this House and have talked for the rich corporations to think that they will sometime knock at your door and enter therein and say, "I would like to employ you on this job"—

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, m[y] order is this: The gentleman from Delaware is [im]pugning the motives of another member of the House, w[ith]out evidence, and furthermore, he is saying that w[hich] is the derogation of a members' private character, [and] should therefore be stopped.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken. The gentleman from Delaware will confine his remarks to the issue.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will leave the lawyers now and go to the pleasanter side of this issue,—the preachers. My friend from Lawrence, for whom I have the highest respect in the world, has theories. These theories are grand and if the theories were put into practice it would be the finest thing in the world and would perhaps save a lot of suffering that we heretofore have had to endure. He says, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." I say now to my friend from Lawrence that there is no man in this House who desires to see that rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you" written on every wall of this House, and to do it, and every member of this House who will do that will not vote for this bill as it stands at the present time. If you will say to these men that you will do unto them as you would have them do unto you, I would be willing to submit this question to that fair tribunal. I say again that I agree with my friend from Lawrence when he says, "Render unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's and unto God the things which are God's"; but I am sorry to say that it seems to me that Cæsar has been getting it all and except the times when my friend from Lawrence and my friend from Indiana mention the name of God I doubt whether he is ever thought of, and I think that Cæsar is "copping" it all. That is the issue exactly as it is, and I ask the members of this House to vote down this bill in its present condition.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified as follows:

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1537, (Senate Bill No. 688), File Folio 1581, on page 46 of to-day's calendar, be made a special order of business at this time.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1537, (Senate Bill No. 688), entitled:

An Act regulating nominations and elections for all elective offices of cities of the second class and repealing certain acts

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to,
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this bill is improperly and illegally on the third reading calendar for the reason that the doors of this House were locked and members on the outside were unable to gain entrance to the hall during the time that action was taken on the resolution discharging the Committee on Municipal Affairs from further consideration of the bill and the first reading thereof.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the point of order, the Chair would state that the proceedings, when that motion was adopted, were entirely regular in the opinion of the Chair, and the proceedings of that meeting have been approved by the House and ratified by the refusal of a majority of the members-elect to expunge from the records the proceedings referred to. Therefore the point of order is not well taken.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is not my purpose to give any lengthy discussion on this bill first, by reason of the fact that I am greatly handicapped with cold, and secondly, that I realize that there is other very important legislation, and I am of the opinion that we are all axious to get our calendar disposed of, so we can all go home on the final date set for adjournment. My reasons for opposing this bill are that there is no sentiment for the repeal of this measure, and I was very favorably impressed with the remarks of the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jordan, when he stated in the course of his argument this morning that sentiment at all times should be respected and I am in hearty accord with his statement that every man and member of this House realized that public sentiment is desirable. No corporation of any size or any board of trade in the city of Pittsburgh has sponsored the repeal of the Non-partisan Act. Our leading newspapers are opposed to the repeal of the Non-partisan Act, and the great senior Senator from the State of Pennsylvania has openly declared in a statement in the Philadelphia newspapers that he is opposed to the repeal of the Non-partisan Act, for it is dangerous at all times to tinker with election laws, and he believes that the law should be kept on our statute books. If I am correctly informed, a similar statement is in the Philadelphia newspapers of this morning in which he substantiates that interview by saying that this is no time for the repeal of a law such as this is. This law has been tried in the city of Pittsburgh, and under this law we have had the election of two mayors and members of council, and I am equally frank in saying to you that on both occasions the political organization with which I was associated, lost. These defeats do not change our position in saying that the Non-partisan Act has been successful, because it has given us a very heavy registration and has brought out the voters to a full sense of civic duty, and the fact is, gentlemen, that every man and woman who is now participating in the politics of the city of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county, favors the legislation that put this bill on the statute books. What we want is a healthy opportunity for the greatest number of people to exercise their franchise at the polls, and if any man or woman is desirous of running for office he or she should have that opportunity of having that individuality at all times of being a candidate, regardless of political factions or political leaders. I might also say to you that I am a believer in home rule. The 1919 session of the Legislature took away considerable of our home rule, but at least we have a little portion of that left and would like to retain it. The bill as it stands affects twenty-four members of the Allegheny county delegation and six members of the Lackawanna delegation, which is a total membershp of thirty that it affects, and we do not believe it is fair for one hundred and seventy-seven men to tell us what our politics should be, what legislation we should have and what legislation we should not have. Of the delegation of twenty-four members from Allegheny county, fourteen members favor the Non-partisan Law. As to the Lackawanna delegation, if I am correctly informed, I think there is a division of three and three, and if my information is correct, then out of a total membership of thirty Representatives, seventeen members favor the bill as it now stands on our statute books. We have had considerable discussion, the House has been put into a position which is not very refreshing, the recent closing days of the Legislature have been such as to affect the success of the Republican party. I hope that you members of the 1921 session will retain your individuality by placing your stamp of approval on the present Non-partisan Law, and permit us in returning home to state that you have at least kept out of Allegheny county politics, by permitting the law to remain as it now stands. I would ask each and every one of you to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, I, together with the majority of the members of this Assembly, are Republicans. I am a loyal party man. That loyalty has never been questioned. I am loyal to the Republican State organization, as the majority of the members of this House are. Various statements have been made at times that this is the "Leslie bill." This bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Davis of the city of Scranton, Lackawanna county. This is not Senator Leslie's bill, this is not Senator Davis' bill, this is the bill that has the solid support and backing of the Republican State organization of this State. The various efforts that have been made to discourage members supporting the Republican State organization and have them vote against this bill are entirely unwarranted, entirely unjustified and entirely unauthorized. The Republican State organization in Pennsylvania has declared in favor of the repeal of this law. Gentlemen, two years ago we repealed the Non-partisan Law as it applied to the third class cities of this State. The city of Philadelphia does not have a Non-partisan Law, and why should the people of Pittsburgh and the people of Scranton alone have a Non-partisan Law? How do their affairs differ from those of the other cities of this State? The gentleman who preceded me said that the members from Allegheny county and those from Lackawanna should determine this question. Gentlemen, you are here to legislate not for any particular section of this Commonwealth but for the entire State. If we followed the gentleman's advice and listened to his argument, every time a bill came up affecting cities of the first class, Philadelphia alone would vote on it; every time a bill came up affecting cities of the second class, Allegheny county and Lackawanna alone would vote on it; every time we had legislation affecting any other sub-division in another county, only those members living there would vote on it. Can you see any logic in such an argument? Gentlemen, remember you are here not representing any particular district or locality, but you are here representing the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and it is your duty to legislate according to the oath you took when you became a member of this House As I said in the beginning, Mr. Speaker, I am a Republican, and being a Republican, I like to assert my party partisanism, I am partisan in my views. Take the states of the Union, do we have the Non-partisan Law in vogue in Democratic states? Then why should we in this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, where the minority party has only been able to elect seventeen men to the General Assembly, why should the Republican party be told what election laws they should have? If the Republican party is to continue supreme in the Commowealth, as it is in the nation, then one step that is necessary in order to maintain that supremacy, is to wipe the Non-partisan Laws from the statute books, the Non-partisan judiciary as well, where it relates to second class city legislation. We do not have non-partisan laws in the nation, we do not have them in the state, we do not have them in first and third class cities, we have them only in second class cities. The position of the opponents of this bill is absolutely untenable. They have tried to make it appear that all the civic organizations of the city of Pittsburgh are opposed to this legislation but it was shown in the Senate hearing and on other occasions that the resolutions adopted were adopted by a board of directors, and in not a single instance was opportunity given to those organizations to vote on the question. They stated that they represented those people by their opposition to this repealer. I do not live in the city of Pittsburgh, but I have my office there and practice law there and am vitally interested in any legislation affecting the city of Pittsburgh. Every member, regardless of his residence, should be interested in legislation affecting those cities the same as in legislation affecting first class cities, third class cities or any county of this State. Gentlemen, I am not going to take up much more time, but in conclusion I want to make a final appeal to the members of this House on the ground of party loyalty, loyaty to the Republican party and loyalty to the Republican State organization.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, when a question comes before this General Assembly which affects a particular locality, of course we try to find out what is the sentiment of those pepole in that locality. If the sentiment is divided, of course we try to find out some principle upon which we can stand with our vote. Now, this is a proposition to repeal the act of 1913. That act was passed after the election of 1912. The election of 1912 was an election, which, as many of you remember, caused a great many changes in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. There was a similar upheaval in 1905; there was a similar upheaval in 1890, and my memory goes back as far as 1882. In each of these cases what do you find? That when an organization obtains power and then becomes so powerful as to be overwhelming, it makes mistakes, and by those mistakes drives away the independent citizens and paves the way for a revolution. Personally, I believe emphatically that the repeal of this law is the best way on earth to increase the Democratic membership of this House from seventeen to a very much larger number. You must remember always that the large part of the citizenship of this State are Republicans because of their sympathies with the principles of the Republican party. Those are the principles which separate the Republicans from the Democrats. Those are the principles upon which we can rely at all national elections, but when you come down to a municipal government, what on earth has the protective tariff or any of the other Republican principles to do with a municipal government? In a municipal government you want to elect a board of directors which will give an honest, faithful and economic administration to the city. In the city you want the best the city has for your offices and for your work. You must not confine it to one party or the other but you must go outside of the parties themselves if it is necessary to provide the best influence and ability for the work. I ask the members of this House to consider very seriously the question as to whether this law ought to be repealed. It was the outgrowth in a large measure of the progressive movement which in 1912, for the first time since the Republican party was formed, took the State away from the Republica party. Why? Because there was a widespread feeling at that time that Republicanism was being used in the various localities as a cloak to cover misgovernment, and there was a strong feeling on the part of the people that that must not be. I submit emphatically that the best way to eliminate that Republicanism, as nationally based on fundamental principles that have to do with questions general to the nation,—one of the best ways is to vote to-day against this bill which will repeal the Non-partisan ballot law in second class cities. The gentleman from Allegheny asked why we didn't have it in Philadelphia. I would that we did have it there, and I hope that the day may come when not only all the cities of this Commonwealth but all cities may have it. A large number of the stafes in the west have this machinery, and it would enable us to get the best possible government for the cities that the citizenship can furnish.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I think we have heard this subject discussed from three standpoints,—from the standpoint of Allegheny county favoring the bill, and the standpoint of Allegheny county opposed to the bill, and lastly from the standpoint of the theorist on government. I therefore move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members: Messrs. Blumberg, Brady, Conner, Davis, Dilsheimer, Dithrich, Dunn, Harer, Haws, Heffernan, W. W. Jones, Krause, Lafferty, McCaig, McCann, McOwen, Rinn, Ruddy, Sowers, Sprowls, Zook and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McVicar, will state his point of order.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this bill is improperly and illegally on the third reading calendar for the reason that the doors of this House were locked and members on the outside were unable to gain entrance to the Hall during the time that action was taken on the resolution discharging the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, from further consideration of the bill and the first reading thereof.

The SPEAKER. In reply to the point of order, the Chair will state that the Journal of the House covering the time of action mentioned in the point of order has already been approved by the House. A similar point of order raised on Senate Bill No. 688 has already been ruled upon by the Chair, and reasons for said ruling given. Therefore, the Chair rules that this point of order is not well taken.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire of the Chair, if the Journal of that session was read?

The SPEAKER. It was read in the usual way.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, it was dispensed with, was it not?

The SPEAKER. It was dispensed with. The Journal was read, but before it was completed the further reading was dispensed with on a motion of the House which in effect was an approval thereof.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, this is the so-called Welfare Bill prepared at the Governor's request by the Attorney General, introduced in the Senate and is now before us. By the terms of this bill you will find that a number of boards and their activities have been merged to the end that greater efficiency may be obtained. The bill has been amended to meet with the requirements of almost everyone so that a fair, honest, decent administration may be had of the charities and the other matters pertaining to charity in this State. I feel, gentlemen, that the serious opposition that existed to the bill has now been removed, and therefore I ask you to support the administration in this measure.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill No. 486, known as the Welfare Bill is now before you for your consideration. It is not everything that has a beautiful name that the contents thereof would bear out the title. When you look at the title of this bill and notice what they call it, the "Welfare Bill" and you next examine it, the further you go on the more you are convinced that they are looking after the welfare of somebody else rather than the poor individuals who are in these homes and these hospitals. It may be properly named, but when you figure up the enormous expenses of carrying on this commission, and the operations thereunder, you will find that the enormous figures there carried out, will carry just what the gentleman from Philadelphia said, it is sponsored by the Governor of this Commowealth and those people who are seeking to receive the revenues of this Commowealth. Never was there presented before a House of Representatives a more iniquitous bill than this one is. I am sorry, sirs, that the gentleman from Philadelphia, saw fit to tell you that the Governor of this great Commonwealth would sanction such an iniquitous bill as this bill is. The more you read this bill the more you are convinced that the high hand of those that are in power is working overtime, Sundays as well. Why sir, the extremes that they have gone to to bring out this iniquitous piece of legislation, Soviet Russia was put in the shade. They covered everything when they even threw from the pedestal of this House the Speaker of this House in order that this might be dumped into this place. I tell you that you may run this down the throats of some people, but it will come back to haunt you, and if you pass this damnable legislation, it will haunt you to your grave and like Banquo's ghost it will come back to haunt you after that. What have they done? Why, sirs, when this bill first came out it carried with it a commissioner, and I understand the secretary of the Governor is to get that job. That is why he has lobbied so earestly around this House, and is around this House at the present time. Ten thousand dollars for that beautiful and nice job, the boss of all of this. Then sirs, it provides after that for four bureaus. One is known, I believe, by another beautiful name, the Bureau of Mental Health. Then comes the Prison Board. The Board examines those who are locked up and cannot get out,—they are going to be put in the same grasp of the politicians. God knows it is bad enough for him to get a sentence, whatever it is, at the present time, but that man's sentence is to be harrassed afterwards by the politicians, who want to seek out his desires and will. I say he had better be electrocuted and be done with it. I know what I am talking about. And after all of that too, this bill provides that the Board of Charities shall be discharged and done away with.

As I said in the first place, it carried with it a ten thousand dollar salary for the gentleman over in the corner. It first started out with the head of each one of these bureaus at four thousand dollars, but when they found it was so easy to bring this thing out of committee, and I say it advisedly, when they found it was so easy to get this thing out of committee, then they said, "What is the use of fooling with a little four thousand dollars, we can put this through for five thousand dollars," and they raised three from four thousand to five thousand dollars. Then they were not satisfied, and they said, "We might as well go the limit," and they made the other fellow $7,500. I thought a long while ago the limit had been reached, and that we had reached the peak, but I do not know whether there is any limit to the conscience of the men who are framing this kind of legislation or not. I do not know how far they will go in their grasp for political power. You have given other departments at the present time in this State the power to appoint whom they please and fix their salaries, and now you come and put into the hands of this one man the power to say what charities shall receive from the revenues of this great Commonwealth, and what charities shall be cut off. Great God! where are we going to get to? Think what you are doing gentlemen. Think of the power you are putting into this one man's hands. Why, the Czar of Russia and the Emperor of Germany never had a greater power than that. Think of those people to-day, gentlemen. First, before taking that up I want to refer you lawyers to the powers in this bill. All the houses and places in which any person of unsound mind is detained, must come under his control and under his supervision. All institutions, associations, societies, or county prisons and all hospitals shall come under his power and his supervision. Homes and premises in which is conducted the business of receiving, boarding or keeping infant children,—mark you, gentlemen,—all the homes and premises in which is conducted the business of receiving, boarding or keeping infant children,—even down to the poor suckling babe they are reaching out to grab them in their grasp, in that great political grasp, which we have seen wielded here in the last week. Take the grand old Board of Public Charities, with that charitable feeling of theirs, with that tenderness of heart, with that power that they have to examine these hospitals, with the power they have to examine all these institutions as they do examine them, notwithstanding that, they have the effrontery to threaten these hospitals, if their men here do not vote to sustain this iniquitous piece of legislation, that they will cut down their allowances. I will say for myself and for the hospital which I represent that they said to me, "Vote against it even if we lost every dollar which we have coming to us." That is what they have come back and said to me and that is what I propose to do. Now gentlemen, if this great program is carried out, they cannot figure in any way they try to, they cannot figure in any way no matter how they try how it is going to cost this great Commonwealth at this present time less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Yet, sirs, this work was carried on in the last year with an appropriation of only one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and there will be turned back twelve thousand dollars. I say that is putting it very conservatively when I say that this piece of legislation if it is carried by this House will run at the present time to an expenditure of at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and it will not be long before it becomes like that Public Service Commission of ours that has gone up in the last few years from three hundred thousand dollars to over a million dollars.

Now let us see if there is any cause for saying that. I say let us see the powers given this Commission, this one man. "The Commissioner may appoint such other officers, inspectors, agents and employees as the work of the department may require who shall receive such salary or compensation as the Commission may determine. The Commissioner may also employ persons having professional or expert knowledge of the matters within the jurisdiction or supervision of the department." Where is the limit? Why sirs, I can see with a political battle on, with their power, their system of procedure, or perhaps it may be in some political fight in some of our counties, or it may be in the State on the United States Senatorship, I can see where located within the confines of this Commonwealth within every precinct some member from the Highway Department, a member of the Health Department, some member from the Welfare Commission, I can see where there will be three or four and may be more than that, and I speak from experience because in the fight here only a year ago Delaware County was covered with men appointed from the Highway Department and from the Board of Health, and I say here is another one now where it adds just one more to that secret work and political power that is given to them. I want to say to you sirs, that you are putting this power into the hands of a man, the most dangerous man that we have ever had to wield a power of this kind. I speak from knowledge and from what I know of him. I say to you now do not blame me if the vengeance he wreaks on you, that he has wreaked on other friends of his comes to pass only because his will is not turned the way he wants it when you don't do just what he wants you to do, and when you don't bow to his bidding if he wreaks the vengeance on you that he wreaks on friends of his heretofore. I say there has never been a power placed more dangerous, and never was a man in whose hands it was placed more dangerous than this one.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman is again criticising in unkind words the Governor of this Commonwealth, his character is not an issue under the bill being discussed by the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. No member of the Legislature will be permitted under the Rules to criticise a co-ordiate branch of the government, therefore the point of order is well taken.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, while I am not in sympathy with the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, I think that he should be given the same latitude that is given to all others, and it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, while I am not in sympathy with him I believe he is being harassed, and I think we will get through more quickly, get to a conclusion more quickly if the gentleman be permitted to speak as he feels on the subject.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will be permitted all the latitude under the Rules as long as he confines himself to the bill before the House. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Surely the thing I am discussing, a bill like this with the iniquities in it that this bill has, and I can point out to this House the danger that is lurking beneath if that is not germane to the issue which we are discussing I do not know what is germane to an issue. I am pointing here exactly at the present time the danger that is lurking within these pages that I hold in my hand, and knowing the man that I speak of for twenty-five years, I am well able to tell what I know about him. I say again that never did you cross a threshold in this whole House as dangerous as the threshold which you are about to cross now if you pass this bill. With the permission of my kind friend from Lawrence to "render under Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's and unto God the things which are God's" if Cæsar in this bill does not get everything and leaves nothing for Almighty God then I cannot read within that border. What have we at the present time gentlemen? We have men at the present time on the State Board of Charities, men whose reputation, men whose honor no man dare point a finger to from one end to the other: men who believe in the scripture, that passage of Holy Writ, "Faith, Hope and Charity" and the greatest of all is Charity. They are that kind. These men give their time valuable as it is, these men give all they have that these charitable institutions may receive what is coming to them from the abundance of this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I know of what I speak. I have seen these men work and know what they do. I know how honest they are, and I know that there is not a political motive in any of their work. I know there is not a thing that they do that has a political motive in it.

I know gentleman I am taking up a good deal of your time but I thank you for your order. I know that the House sees fit generally to give me their best attention. I say advisedly that the House sees fit to give me their attention. I might add here further that I want to say to this House that I have never addressed this House that I have not had the best attention. I appreciate that especially in view of the fact that at many times I have been annoying, long drawn out perhaps. Perhaps some of you gentlemen did ot want to hear, but I recogize gentlemen that I have had the best attention that it is possible for the House to give a man while he is on his feet, and I want to thank you now gentlemen for the courtesies which you have extended to me every time I have been on my feet.

Now, gentlemen, for fear some of you may not know the personel of this grand board of Public Charities I want to read you the names: Isaac Johnson, living in the county in which I live; Howard B. French, of Philadelphia; Louis Wolf, of Philadelphia; Dr. J. A. Lichty and William Price, of Pittsburgh; Dr. Peter F. Moylan, of Philadelphia; Dr. D. J. McCarthy, of Philadelphia; Laning Harvey, of Wilkes-Barre; Rollin Blakely, of Franklin, Venango county and Norman Macleod, of Philadelphia. Not a man from the beginning of that role to the end of it that to whom any man has been able to point a finger of scorn or dishonor or to one mean trick. As I said before that whole Board receives not one cent of pay. They do it from the kindness of their hearts; they do it because they feel that they owe it not only to these worthy inmates, to these poor people who are obliged to be confined in the different institutions in which they are confined, but they also feel that as far as their duty to Almighty God is concerned they ought to do it. They have given an abundance of their work, and many times their money even in helping these charities. And what do they intend to do? They are going to discharge those men, and if you gentlemen please, if you pass this thing they call the Welfare Bill, you are going to discharge that grand body of men. You are going to say to them, "Yes, true it is, Hope, Faith and Charity and Charity is the greatest of all three, but we are not going to give you permission to exercise your prerogative; we are not going to give you your chance to do your mite for these poor sufferers in these institutions and your Almighty God, but we are going to take that out of your hands and we are going to place that in the hands of the grasping politician that he may reap from them whatever benefit politically he may get." Are you ready to step over that threshold; are you ready by your voice to say that you are willing to subject these poor babies, helpless to-day in these homes and institutions, without father or mother, many of them left orphans by them; are you going to subject the man who is sentenced to a term of imprisonment; are you going to subject the poor persons in the hospital suffering from one ailment or another, some of them knowing that they will never leave, and never be removed from those beds of pain; are you going, I say now by your vote to-day, to place their entire future, and their wants of the future, and their future wants to the whims of the politician, or are you going to leave them in the hands of this kindly board? This, gentlemen is entitled to your serious objection. I care not what the threats are that they will cut your appropriations. You say to the man who gave you that threat that you dare him to cut your appropriation because you have voted against this bill. Be men enough to stand up now and say, "I dare you to cut this appropriation," but it is your duty as men to stand here now and protect these helpless, these poor people who cannot help themselves. Oh, it is bad enough, sir, that the men who are walking our streets, who are able-minded and able-bodied men who are able to take care of themselves, it is bad enough for us to soak them with a tax, and place a tax on them that perhaps will be a burden. What greater crime can there be than for a member of the Legislature to vote for a bill that puts these different institutions into the hands of the grasping politician, so that he in his will may demand that they deliver certain votes either in this House or at the polls, by saying to them that their appropriations in the future shall depend wholly and solely upon what they give to whatever power is in existence. I care not whether it is Penrose's regime or whether it is Max Leslie's regime or whether it is Senator Crow's regime or whether it is Governor Sproul's regime, or what it is, it is placing the power in his hands, who is the Almighty, who is all powerful, who can wreak vengeance on a charity as he sees fit and as it pleases him, and as they deliver to him at whatever time it is necessary to so deliver. I ask you now, and I hope you will pardon me for trespassing perhaps, but if there ever was a chance for you men in this Legislature to listen to the behest of Almighty God, I believe you hear Him calling you now at the present time to duty, and not sacrifice these institutions and these poor people in these institutions to the grasping politician. I ask you with a loud voice as you vote to holler "No".

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I did not follow the gentleman from Delaware in the remarks that he has made in his argument, but I have reached the same conclusions. This bill was sponsored by the Senator from my district and I wish to say there has never been a man more unselfish or more genuine in his devotion to the poor than has Senator Woodward. I am absolutely certain that in the origination of this bill there is no political motive. There has, however, been a thought burning in my mind that a very considerable work, wherever you get it, starts out with the individual, the private individual and when there are poor people and suffering people to be taken care of, good people come together and form an institution, and as a result we get our hospitals and our homes to take care of them. In many, many cases people who start this kind of work still continue in the management of it and they have a sincere desire to look after the business or work that belongs to others to do. As time goes on the States comes along and insists that these institutions shall come up to a certain level of efficiency and that the standard shall be higher. My objection to this bill is not that the bill embodies a wrong idea, but I think it does embody a wrong idea at this time, and I do not think it is proper that it should be passed. We have been in session during the past four months in which time gradually the powers of the State have been enlarged. We have been considering measures that are of importance to the State and every time that we have improved our school department or the Forestry Department or the Fisheries Department, and with the hunting license, we bring the government more and more in touch with the common people and when we do that there is a bill that the people must pay. I have no objection to the extension of the functions of the government, but I say it must be done in reason. We cannot accomplish all these reforms at one time and when we pass a series of bills such as we have passed in this session, which have added to the scope of the general authority of the State, we are heaping up expenditures which must be met with new revenue acts. I should strongly prefer during the next two years, for my own part, that the State might pass through a period of retrenchment. I believe, emphatically, that the man who will do so will win the approval of the people at the next election if he will run on a platform something similar to that of the platform on which Governor Miller of New York was elected as the chief executive of that Commonwealth by his action in cutting out unnecessary offices and stripping the state of unnecessary functions, making it necessary to reduce some of the taxes and making it possible to win on that platform, in the reduction of taxes that are imposed upon the people of this State. I appreciate the fact that this bill may not be a very expensive bill, but nobody knows how expensive it is. However, it has some looseness in the language in section 7 to which I have frequently directed the attention of this House. Whatever it may be, it is an extension of the power of the State which cannot be done without somebody paying the bill, and we add to the cost of the government which we must add to the deficiency which the Legislature when it meets the next time must face. I would like to say that if we are to have such a department of public welfare, doing the things which the bill contemplates, I say emphatically, it is a mistake to move in advance of public sentiment in the matter; you must wait until there is public sentiment; till the public is educated up to a point before we can legislate on a program like this. Therefore, for that reason I shall give a negative vote on this bill.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, to me it is a matter of great pleasure to hear the getleman from Philadelphia, who has preceded me, speak so highly about the Senator from Germantown, Philadelphia, Mr. Woodwarl. He is one of the greatest students of government in this entire State. This bill would never have been sponsored by him, had it not met with his entire approval; as to its method, its procedure and its usefulness at this time. Senator Woodward has never been known to introduce any measure which could have been put off to any other time. I am surprised at the words of the gentleman from Philadelphia who has preceded me that he has joined the ranks of the standpatters to do nothing until to-morrow. I am surprised beyond words that he would join the ranks of the standpatters on a subject which has been considered by the State and on which, I have no doubt, many of you have received letters from scores of women's organizations throughout this State usgng the passage of this bill. We may come up here and attempt to hold these things back, but if the women of Pennsylvania, as they indicate, are back of this bill, then we see the handwriting on the wall as seen by Belshazzar "Mene, mene, tekel upharsin". There is no use in putting it off until to-morrow. Let us do it now. It has been thought out and it must be done now, and it must be done economically. The gentleman from Delaware has again expounded on the difference between him and the entire State government, which he has opposed. It is to be hoped that some day will come when he will realize that if he is placed in the position of the Governor of the Commonwealth, that he will appreciate the Governor's position and we hope and know that no one will rise to say anything but what is right and we all can say that if this bill were not what he says, or if the Governor was of a type he says he is would his friend, Judge Johnson, or some of these other men whom he has praised to the skies, be continued in honorable positions? Would the Governor of Pennsylvania, if he was a man to strike back, as the gentleman from Delaware has intimated, permit these men to remain on the Board of Charities when it is in his power to remove them? Would he permit these men to remain on the Lunacy Board when it is in his power to remove them? Or would he permit them to remain on the Prison Board or the Labor Board? Why, the very acts of the Governor have absolutely refuted to the full the argument presented by the gentleman from Delaware. Furthermore, he has not told you that everyone of the boards which he eulogizes to the heavens carries an employes roll from which this bill eventually saves $40,000 a year. He has expounded at great length on the fact of the possibiiity of the Secretary of the Governor being elected or appointed as chairman of the Commission under this bill. I wish to say to you, gentlemen, that I discussed that very point with the Governor and he assured me that his secretary would not be appointed chairman of the Public Welfare Commission. I discussed it with the secretary himself, who also assured me that he did not want it, and would not take it. Furthermore, the Secretary to the Governor has come out in public print denying the rumors by the cabal as to the reports that they have attempted to raise against him. Examine the bill and listen to what the gentleman from Delaware has said: You will not find a single reason against the bill; he has excused himself but he has given no light on the bill. This bill will fill a long-needed want. It will merge salaries and take away unnecessary timber and bring about readjustment in the charity conditions and funds as this State administers them. It will meet our hearty approval two years hence. I want to say also that there is not a question about the proper administration of this measure. Who knows, but what the Governor will appoint the self-same board that has been so highly eulogized under the terms of this bill. There is not a single thing that can be said against this bill except the hope of certain gentlemen to keep in office their friends, nicely paying jobs, instead of realizing that where the expense is so absolutely unnecessary, we can eliminate some and merge others and get efficiency. I can answer, as far as I am concerned, that I have voted for salary raisers where needed, as I realized that employees of the State of Pennsylvania do not receive, as a rule, what employees with the same ability in private organizations receive, and we must realize that if we want to get and keep efficiency we must pay for it. That is what we must do if we get it. I realize that as burdens are placed upon employees, no party no State organization can keep efficient men in office for any length of time without the criticism of the people. This bill has the approval of the Governor; it has the approval of the decent citizenship of this State; it has the approval of that great group of new voters who will take toll of us if we fail to listen to their voices.

Mr. BRADY. Mr. Speaker, I have the presumption to ask for a half minute of your time. I thoroughly second the remarks of the two prior speakers on the question of this bill. As regarding the legislation, as to my own opinion, I think that the majority of the members of this House and the Governor of the State through this bill expect to save some money for the State. I will also add that the Governor has been willing to amend this act or to listen to any suggestion to any member from any part of this State. I trust that the members of this House will vote for this bill.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following: Messrs. Allum, Armstrong, Baldi, Brady, Curran, Davis, Dilsheimer, Dithrich, Drinkhouse, Dunn, Franklin, Glass, Harer, Heffernan, Kantner, Krause, Long, Howard Smith, Sprowls, Stewart and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. CHAPLIN. Mr. Speaker, I voted "no" on Senate Bill No. 486 for the following reasons:

The Legislature of Pennsylvania is about to adjourn. Many of the members will return to their homes to face disgusted constituents, with an excellent prospect of rejection at the next primaries.

For of this Legislature it may be said that it has been extravagant; that it has been reckless and shameless in its expenditures; that to make good the deficit of its financial debauchery it has piled taxes upon an already tax-ridden community.

There has been exceptions, of course. In a public body there are always some who perform their duty to the best of their ability and make public good paramount to all else. The home people will know who these are in the present Legislature; and the home people will also know upon whom to place the blame for the wild dance of madness that so many legislators have been indulging in under the crack of the whips of selfish and insolent leadership.

No member of the Pennsylvania Legislature who has been engaged in the conspiracy to force upon the people the Public Welfare Bill can have a ghost of a chance to explain satisfactorily his support of it. It can't be done.

And for "Public Welfare" read "Public Plunder".

For that is precisely what this measure is. What does it do? It creates a partisan political machine with absolute power. It establishes tools—paid tools—of autocracy. These tools can be placed in every county as agents, "inspectors," representatives of bosses at Harrisburg. They can be named without limit as to numbers. They can be paid any sort of salaries that the chief tool of the machine —the Commissioner—shall determine.

And every cent of this money will come out of the State Treasury.

It is the most preposterous, the most contemptible, the most insulting, the most dangerous political scheme that was ever attempted to be put over in the history of this State.

It makes so-called "Public Welfare" legislation a cloak for Partisan Political Plunder, inasmuch as it fastens a political machine upon the public treasury and heaps burdens of additional taxation upon the people to pay the wages of an unlimited army of men specially employed to run that machine.

And that is not the worst of it. It subjects every institution in Pennsylvania that receives State aid to the menace of blackmail.

To carry out this monstrous scheme a "rump" House on Monday night and again yesterday was turned into a bear garden. Lost of all sense of decency, what is known as the Capitol Hill Ring, with its eyes on Power, brought disgrace upon itself and upon the entire State. No citizen of Pennsylvania can mistake or misunderstand the baseness of it all.

Home to your cyclone cellars, you men who have deliberately played the wretched game of sordidness. The day of reckoning for you at the hands of a betrayed and plundered people is sure.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1177, (Senate Bill No. 90), File Folio 4587, on page 47 of to-day's calendar, be made a special order of business at this time.

Mr. FITZGIBBON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1177 (Senate Bill No 90), as follows:

An Act providing for the nomination and election of judges of courts of record and repealing certain acts.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all judges of the Supreme Court and Superior Court shall be nominated on party tickets at party primaries in any year in the same manner and subject to the same laws in all respects as govern the nomination of other State officers nominated by the voters of the State at large and such judges shall be elected at general or municipal elections which shall be held and conducted in the same manner and subject to the same laws in all respects as govern the election of other State officers elected by the voters of the State at large

Section 2 All judges of courts of record elected in any county or judicial district shall be nominated on party tickets at party primaries in odd numbered years in the same manner and subject to the same laws in all respects as govern the election of members of the General Assembly and such judges shall be elected at the municipal elections which elections shall be held and conducted in the same manner and subject to the same laws in all respects as govern the election of members of the General Assembly

Section 3 At the meeting to receive and compute the returns of the preceding election or nomination returns of the votes given in each county for the nomination or election of judges of the Supreme Court and Superior Court and all judges which the qualified electors of any county forming a judicial district unconnected with any other county or district certified under seal shall be made out by the prothonotary of the court of common pleas of such county or by the county commissioners as the case may be One copy of said returns shall be filed in the office of the prothonotary of such court or in the office of the county commissioners and the other return such prothonotary or county commissioners shall enclose in a sealed envelope and immediately mail to the Secretary of the Commonwealth A certified copy of such return shall also be mailed to each person nominated or elected in any such judicial district

Section 4 In case of the nomination or election of a judge or judges in a judicial district composed of two or more counties or of a single county to which one or more counties are attached the court or the county commissioners as the case may be shall open and compute such returns and the prothonotary of such court or the county commissioners shall make out a return of all the votes which shall have been cast at such election or nomination within the county for every person voted for the office of judge which return shall be properly attested by the seal of the said court or the seal of the county commissioners The court or commissioners receiving and computing the returns shall thereupon appoint one of the judges of election in said county to take charge of such returns and produce the same at a meeting of the judges so appointed in each of the counties comprising said district which meeting shall be held on the seventh day after the nomination or election and at the court house of one of the counties to be ascertained taking such counties alternately in alphabetical order

Section 5 The return judges of the several counties as aforesaid having met shall cast up the several county returns and shall make copies of the general return of all the votes cast in the district for such office of judge each of which they shall certify One of said copies they shall lodge in the office of the prothonotary or county commissioners as the case may be of the county in which they so met another copy they shall enclose seal and direct to the Secretary of the Commonwealth and they shall also deliver a copy of such return to each person nominated or elected at such election

Section 6 The act entitled "An Act to regulate nominations and elections for all elective offices of cities of the second class and all offices of judge of a court of record providing for non-partisan nominations and elections for said offices abolishing certain existing methods of nomination in such cases and the use of party or political names or appellations at elections with respect to said offices imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth county commissioners and election officers and clerks and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof and the punishment of certain offenses" approved the twenty-fourth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand and one) and

The act entitled "An Act to amend sections three eight and sixteen of an act entitled 'An act to regulate nominations and elections for all elective offices of cities of the second class and all offices of judge of a court of record providing for non-partisan nominations and elections for said offices abolishing certain existing methods of nomination in such cases and the use of party or political names or appellations at elections with respect to said offices imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth county commissioners and election officers and clerks and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof and the punishment of certain offenses' approved the twenty-fourth day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen" approved the eighteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand forty-six) and

The act entitled "An Act to amend an act entitled 'An Act to regulate nominations and elections for all elective offices of cities of the second class and all offices of judge of a court of record providing for non-partisan nominations and election for said offices abolishing certain existing methods of nomination in such cases and the use of party or political names or appellations at elections with respect to said offices imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth county commissioners and election officers and clerks and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof and the punishment of certain offenses' approved the twenty-fourth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen so as to make the proviso to section thirteen of said act operative where two or more candidates for the office of judge of any court of record consisting of several judges are to be elected at one election" approved the eighteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fifty) are hereby repealed so far as said acts relate to the nomination and election of persons to the office of judge of the Supreme Court Superior Court or of a court of record

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to?

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this is a bill that proposes to repeal in a like manner to the second class city non-partisan bill. I do not want to repeat the argument that I made awhile ago, but I merely want to say that every argument that applied to the second class city bill applies to the judiciary bill. Of all men on earth whose positions should be withheld independent of political faction, it is the judges. If it was thought to be a wise act in 1913, I do not think it would be wise to repeal it in 1921.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, non-partisan judiciary elections have never proved, so far as the State-wide elections are concerned, to be non-partisan and it is not necessary to deny to those of us who are observing, that such a thing exists. You and I know that we support candidates for office because they are either Republicans or Democrats, and it may not be apparent on the surface, but all of us know in practical life that the political parties support the candidate because of his adherence to their views. This repeals an act which on its face is a mere bluff. There has never been a judge that I heard of elected in this State, so far as the state-wide election is concerned, that has been elected by a non-partisan action. It has always been a partisan action, and the qualified voters of the party are told to support him. You and I know that both parties do that. What is the use of keeping a dead letter law on the books? It is a pure fake and I ask you to support this bill and let us get down to the pure principles of Republican government.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, non-patisanism, so far as the judiciary is concerned, is a misnomer. My experience has been that ninety-nine times out of a hundred when a man is elected to office he becomes non-partisan, but to say a man is non-partisan just because he is on a non-partisan ticket is a misnomer. The Democrat or Republican on that ticket receives the vote of his party, with this exception, that when the non-partisan candidate is placed on the ticket, as you know, it is placed in a place by itself. You have to mark a cross in your party square and then go and mark a cross opposite the man you want to vote for for judge. What is the result? The idea and the intention is proper but my contention is that the intention is absolutely defeated, and I say that for these reasons that the strict party man, a man who is a Democrat or Republican or professional politician, I may say, votes for that man for judge whom his party wants, but the independent voter, and I can say this from years of experience, rarely marks either one of the judges, and ninety times out of a hundred you will find that the judges are thousands below what the high vote is for their party. Therefore I say that as far as the judiciary is concerned, non-partisanism is a misnomer. Another reason for cutting it out is the fact that at this present time no party is responsible for the judge. He is non-partisan; he is not nominated or appointed or put on the ticket by either party, therefore no party is responsible for him. That should not be the case. One of the great parties at least should be responsible for the man they nominate on that ticket, and therefore for that reason, as I said before, the purpose of the act has never met with the approval of the people who understand how it works out.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 484.

An Act makiny an appropriation to the Eastern State Penitentiary at Philadelphia Pennsylvania

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, page 1, line 4, by striking out after the words "sum of" the word four and inserting in lieu thereof the word "five"; amend line 4, by striking out after the word "and" the words "eighty-five" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "thirty-five" amend line 5, by striking out after the word "dollars" the figures "($485,385)" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "(535,385)"; amend line 12, by striking out at the beginning of the line the word "three" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four"; amend line 12, by striking out after the word "and" the word "eighty" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "thirty" amend line 13, by striking out the figures "($380,000)" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "($430,000)".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, Mr. Brady.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Brady, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRADY. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia why the raise in the appropriation in this bill?

Mr. BRADY. Mr. Speaker, the reason why this appropriation has been increased, or rather raised, fom $485,385 to $535,385, is to equalize the salaries of the guards at the Eastern Penitentiary and the Western Penitentiary. It is done at the request of the entire delegation from Philadelphia.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia. Do I understand that this was to equalize the salaries of the men in the Eastern Penitentiary with those of the Western Penitentiary? Is that your answer?

Mr. BRADY. Your question is, why the increase from $380,000 to $430,000? That is a $50,000 increase to equalize the salaries.

Mr. ALEXANDER. In the second paragraph it raises $50,000?

Mr. BRADY. That is for salaries for officers on parole work.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Fifty thousand dollars more?

Mr. BRADY. First of all the appropriation was increased because of the increased number of convicts in the Eastern Penitentiary. There are 1,600 convicts there.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 1237.

An Act amending an act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven entitled "An act to restrain and regulate the sale of vinous and spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixtures thereof" by prohibiting the manufacture sale offering for sale transportation importation exportation furnishing or possession for beverage purposes of anything determined and found to be intoxicating by Act of Congress passed pursuant to and in the enforcement of the Constitution of the United States of America and by restraining and regulating the sale of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixtures thereof fit for beverage purposes other than such as are from time to time determined and found to be intoxicating by any such Act of Congress

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 2, page 5, line 10, by striking out the following words "designated by the said courts"; amend section 5, page 13, by striking out from line 12 to line 28 inclusive; amend section 5, page 14, by striking out lines 1 to 23 inclusive; amend page 14, line 24, by striking out after the word "section" the figure "7" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "6"; amend page 16, line 14, by striking out after the word "section" the figure "9" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "8"; amend page 17, line 18, by striking out after the word "section" the figure "9" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "8"; amend page 19, line 7, by striking out after the word "section" the figures "10" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "9";amend page 20, line 12, by striking out after the word "section" the figures "11" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "10"; amend page 21, line 3, by striking out after the word "section" the figures "12" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "11"; amend page 21, line 14, by striking out after the figures "21" the word "Proof" and insert in lieu thereof the words "When proof"; amend page 22, line 11, by striking out after the word "county" the words "or of the mayor of any city wherein such premises are located"; amend page 22, line 16, by striking out after the word "section" the figures "24" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "12"; amend page 22, by striking out lines 21 to 25 inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

Section 13. All licenses in force or granted at the time of the approval of this amendment shall remain in force until the expiration of the time for which they were granted unless revoked by the court for violation of the law and the instalments therefor shall be payable as heretofore provided by law until the said instalments have aggregated the amount of the license fee fixed by this amendment

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, this is an act to provide for the enforcement of the prohibition legislation, and I would like to have some one explain the Senate amendments or else move that we non-concur in them.

Mr. BOLARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do non-concur in the amendments of the Senate.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker it seems to me that this House owes a courtesy to the sponsor of this bill. The sponsor of this bill is in the House, and it seems to me that the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Woner, should be asked if these amendments have been made known to him and if they meet with his approval.

Mr. WONER. Mr. Speaker, the amendments that have been made by the Senate in Bill 1237 include only one change that is at all vital as an enforcement feature, that is striking out in section 23 the following phrase: "Or the major of any city wherein such premises are located". That is the inspection clause. The right to issue a permit to inspect is now confined to the judges of the court and to the district attorney. I desire to say that after a conference with the Governor and with the Attorney General who drafted this bill, so far as I am personally concerned this one particular change is satisfactory. However I leave it entirely to the members of the House, as to their judgment as to how it would affect them in their particular communities. That is the only change that affects the enforcement feature in any way. Another amendment has entirely to do with deciding in what newspapers the advertisements are to be made. Another change is restoring the Brooks Act instead of giving a bond which had been written out of the act in the original draft of the bill. The final amendments has to do with enforcement and is of minor concern.

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that many of the men on this floor were not favorable to this act as it was originally drafted, and are not favorable now, I hope it will be voted down. I believe that it was conceived in secrecy and born in insincerity, and dumped upon an innocent and unsuspecting public. I believe we should not concur in the amendments. I see no reason why the drys and the wets of this State should be humbugged by such a measure It has not been my purpose to fool anybody in my attitude on this question, but I believe you cannot be sincere to either the drys or the wets in the passage of this measure, the bill as it is now. When a man takes out a license he would take it out, perhaps fooling himself into the belief that he is going back into a legitimate business of selling intoxicating liquors and the drys on the other hand would be fooling themselves by believing that they would have an enforcement measure. This is a licensing measure, simply licensing them to sell something under cover, to sell something which they now sell without a license. I see no reason for concurrence in the amendments to this act. I hope every sincere man here, either wet or dry, will vote down these amendments.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me if any enforcement act should have in it and give the power to anybody in the city or municipality where they are located I cannot see why the mayor, who has the responsibility of enforcing these laws, and upon whom the responsibility rests, I cannot see why he should not have the power to enforce this law as well as anybody else. When this bill left us we believed that it was an enforcement law and that it would enforce the constitutional amendment as it should be enforced, but for some reason or other it has been weakened by taking the mayor out of this bill. I hope you will all vote to non-concur in these amendments.

Mr. DILSHEIMER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, when this bill was in the Law and Order Committee, in reading the bill over throughly I could not find any fault in the bill itself, but objected to that clause so far as the enforcement clause in the municipality is concerned. I do not want to charge that our present mayor would follow this rule, that would have to be met in the future when there is a change in the mayors, and we do not know what would happen. I believe in justice to those who have a license in cities of the first class and especially where there is so much political turmoil, that the business people should not be harassed. Therefore I made the motion at that time in the Committee to drop that clause, and I believe it no more than just and right that those people who pay for a privilege of that kind should be protected and not harassed by the police department. I therefore ask you to concur in these amendments.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, when we had before us yesterday the enforcement measure, you were told it was prepared by the Executive. It has been amended in the Senate as explained to you by simply eliminating the mayors of the cities. I submit to you that is not an amendment which should give anybody any worry for this reason. The courts in the first place will have to grant the licenses, and in the second place if one does not live up to the law and sells the terrible stuff to which the gentleman, from Cambria, Mr. Horne, refers, and thereby breaks the law, the mayor of the city is not the person to enforce it, it is the district attorney because it is an offense against the peace of the Commonwealth, therefore the mayor is eliminated, because in the law it being a breach of the statute law it is the district attorney's business to enforce the provisions of it, and so I submit to you that this proposition, if anything, makes the act stronger and takes it away from what has been referred to as a petty police proposition. It seems to me that since this is the only enforcement bill we have before us, we can well accept it, then if it needs strengthening, after it has been tried, the Legislature will be in session two years hence and they can readily strengthen it and make the enforcement stronger if they deem it wise. I ask you to support the measure.

The SPEAKER. Instead of putting the motion of the gentleman from Crawford, the Chair will place before the House the question, will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 1192

An Act imposing a State tax on gasoline sold in this Commonwealth except for the purpose of resale providing for the collection thereof providing for the distribution and use of the revenues derived from said tax making an appropriation and fixing penalties

With the information that the Senate has passed the same wth amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend by striking out entire title and insert in lieu thereof the following:

An Act imposing a State tax on gasoline and on all other liquids containing any derivative of petroleum or natural gas produced prepared or compounded or usable for the purpose of generating power by means of internal combustion and sold in this Commonwealth except for the purpose of resale providing for the collection of such tax and for the distribution and use of the revenues derived therefrom making an appropriation and fixing penalties

Amend section 1, page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "That" the following: The word "gasoline" as used in this act shall include the liquid derived from petroleum or natural gas commonly known or sold as gasoline and all other liquids by whatsoever name known or sold containing any derivative of petroleum or natural gas and produced prepared or compounded for the purpose of generating power by means of internal combustion or which may be used for such purpose

Amend line 11, by inserting after the word "gallon" the words "or fraction thereof".

Amend line 13, by inserting after the word "Commonwealth" the words "for any purpose whatsoever"; amend line 14, by striking out after the word "resale" the following: All taxes collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the general fund of the State Treasury and insert in lieu thereof the following: The tax hereby provided for shall be collected by the person firm association or corporation selling gasoline to purchasers who purchase for purposes other than resale and shall be paid by the said person firm association or corporation into the general fund of the State Treasurer in the manner and within the time hereinafter specified

Amend section 2, page 3, by striking out lines 3 to 8 inclusive; amend section 3, page 3, line 12, by striking out the word "fifteenth" and insert in lieu thereof the word "last"; amend page 3, line 26, by inserting at the end of section 3 the following:

Section 4 The tax imposed by this act shall be paid by the person firm association or corporation purchasing gasoline for his or its own use and not for the purpose of resale and every person firm association or corporation required by section one of this act to collect the tax herein specified shall state the amount of such tax separately from the price of the said gasoline and any one failing so to state separately the tax and price of the said gasoline shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) for each offense

Amend page 4, line 10, by striking out after the word "Section" the figure "4" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "5"; amend line 10, by striking out after the word "General" the words "and State Treasurer"; amend line 11, by striking out after the word "by" the words "them or either of them are" and insert in lieu thereof the words "him is"; amend line 19, by inserting after the word "taxes" the following: But any information gained by the Auditor General or any other person as a result of the reports investigations or verifications herein required to be made shall be confidential and any person divulging such information shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) or to undergo an imprisonment of not more than one year or both

Amend line 28, by striking out after the word "Section" the figure "5" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "6"; amend page 5, line 4, by striking out after the word "General" the words "and State Treasurer"; amend line 5, by striking out the word "then" and insert in lieu thereof the word "him"; amend line 12, by striking out the word "is" and insert in lieu thereof the words "shall be"; amend by inserting after line 17, the following:

Section 7 All fines collected under this act shall be paid to the State Treasurer and by him credited and paid as provided in section two hereof

Amend line 21, by striking out after the word "Section" the figure "6" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "8"; amend line 28, by striking out after the word "Section" the figure "7" and insert in lieu thereof the figure "9"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill imposing a tax on gasoline. I should be very glad if the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Dawson, would explain just what changes the Senate has made in it.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, the clause providing for fifty per cent of the tax to revert to the counties is eliminated. All the receipts from the tax now go to the State. On page four the bill is amended so that the Auditor General is authorized to take charge of the collection of the tax instead of the State Treasurer.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, you remember the argument was made by the sponsor of this bill when the bill was before us that the counties would get fifty per cent of the tax refunded to them. The amendments take away that fifty per cent and give the whole amount to the State Treasury and to the State. I, therefore, Mr. Speaker, move that we nonconcur in the amendments of the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander, that the Chair will put the question of concurring in the amendments of the Senate in the usual way.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Section 9 That section twenty of said act which reads as follows

"Section 20 Every motor vehicle on the public highway shall from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise or whenever it is impossible to see clearly for a distance of two hundred (200) feet show at least two lights of approximately equal power on the front of such vehicle that shall be clearly visible for a distance of two hundred (200) feet Provided That motor-cycles to which no side car is attached need display only one such light but no brilliant light shall be displayed on any motor vehicle standing on the left-hand side of the highway

Every motor vehicle equipped with and using electric light or lights of more than four (4) candlepower not equipped with a permanent deflecting or diffusing device upon any of the public highways of this State shall be provided and equipped with some practical and efficient device or devices whereby the forward lights of such vehicle may be dimmed or lessened at the will of the operator to such an extent that such electric light of the reflection therefrom through said forward lights will not interfere with the sight of nor temporarily blind the vision of the driver of an approaching vehicle and it shall be the duty of every operator of such motor vehicle equipped with and using electric lights upon the public highways of this State to effectually apply such dimmer to the forward lights of the vehicle operated by him or her and cause such lights to be dimmed and lessened so as not to interfere with the sight or temporarily blind the vision of the operator of any approaching vehicle

Every motor vehicle including motor-cycles shall also whether standing or in motion display one red light on the rear thereof and if a trailer be attached to such motor vehicle or another motor vehicle is being towed so as to obscure such red light then a red light shall be displayed on the rear of such vehicle or such trailer

The registration plate on the rear of every motor vehicle including motor-cycles and trailer shall also be clearly illuminated during the same period

Whenever there is not sufficient light within the limits of the highway to clearly reveal persons vehicles or substantial objects at a distance of two hundred (200) feet the front lights shall when the vehicle is in motion clearly illuminate the road for a distance of at least two hundred (200) feet in front of such vehicle and for five (5) feet to the right of such vehicle at a point twenty (20) feet in front of the lamps

No lights of more than thirty-two (32) candlepower shall be used on any motor vehicle and all lights in excess of four (4) candlepower equipped with reflectors shall be so arranged designed diffused or deflected that no dazzling rays of light shall at a point seventy-five (75) feet or more ahead of the lamps rise more than forty-two (42) inches above the level surface on which the vehicle stands

All additional or supplemental lights including movable spotlights or searchlights shall fully comply with these restrictions and the rays of light from any such searchlight or spotlight shall at no time extend to the left of the center of the highway

No red light shall be displayed on the front of any motor vehicle

The State Highway Commissioner may after proper road and laboratory tests approve certain devices for controlling the front lights on motor vehicles so that they shall comply with the provisions of this section upon the payment of such fee as he may deem necessary to cover the actual cost of such tests not to exceed the sum of fifty ($50) dollars and may issue a certificate to the applicant describing the device and certifying that such tests have been made and that the device when properly applied complies with the requirements of this act" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 20 Every motor vehicle on the public highway shall from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise show at least two lights of approximately equal power on the front of such vehicle that shall be clearly visible for a distance of at least two hundred (200) feet Provided That motor-cycles to which no side car is attached need display only one such light but no brilliant light shall be displayed on any motor vehicle standing on the left-hand side of the highway and further provided that the council of any city or borough or the commissioners or supervisors of any township may by ordinance establish zones in brightly lighted sections within which motor vehicles may remain standing without lights

When any motor vehicle or motor-cycle is in motion on a public highway not so lighted as to render any substantial object clearly discernible at a distance of two hundred (200) feet it shall show a front lamp or lamps furnishing illumination in accordance with the following provisions

Motor vehicles shall display lighted front lamps furnishing sufficient illumination to render clearly discernible on a level highway any substantial object two hundred (200) feet directly ahead and any substantial object one hundred (100) feet ahead and seven (7) feet to the right of the axis of such vehicle and this provision shall be deemed to be complied with if the apparent candlepower of the combined beams of the lamps as measured one hundred (100) feet directly ahead of the vehicle on a level surface and at a height not less than one half (½) the distance of the center of the reflector above said level surface is not less than forty-eight hundred (4,800) and if the apparent candlepower as measured one hundred (100) feet ahead of the vehicle and seven (7) feet to the right of the axis thereof at any point not above the level of the head lamp is not less than twelve hundred (1,200)

Motor-cycles shall display a lighted front lamp or front lamps furnishing sufficient illumination to render clearly discernible on a level highway any substantial object one hundred and forty (140) feet directly ahead and any substantial object seventy (70) feet ahead and five (5) feet to the right of the axis of such vehicle and this provision shall be deemed to be complied with if the apparent candlepower of the combined beams of the lamps as measured one hundred (100) feet directly ahead of the vehicle on a level surface and at a height not less than one-half (½) the distance of the center of the reflector above said level surface is not less than twenty-four hundred (2,400) and if the apparent candlepower as measured one hundred (100) feet ahead of the vehicle and seven (7) feet to the right of the axis thereof at any point not above the level of the head lamp is not less than six hundred (600)

The lamps of all vehicles shall be so arranged adjusted and operated as to avoid dangerous glare or dazzle and so that no dangerously glaring or dazzling rays from the lamps of any vehicle on a level road can be projected at such an angle above the level as to enter the eyes of approaching drivers or pedestrians and this provision shall be deemed to be complied with if the apparent candlepower of the beam or combined beams of the lamp or lamps as measured one hundred (100) feet ahead of the vehicle on a level surface and five (5) feet above the level surface does not exceed twenty-four hundred (2,400) directly in front of the vehicle and eight hundred (800) at a point seven (7) feet to the left of the axis of the vehicle and at the same height

Every motor vehicle including motor-cycles shall also whether standing or in motion display one red light on the rear thereof and if a trailer be attached to such motor vehicle or another motor vehicle is being towed so as to obscure such red light then a red light shall be displayed on the rear of such vehicle or such trailer Provided That a motor vehicle while standing upon any public highway may exhibit only a parking light in accordance with the provisions further set forth in this section

The registration plate on the rear of every motor vehicle including motor-cycles and trailer shall also be clearly illuminated during the same period except when such vehicle is standing upon any public highway and exhibiting a parking light in accordance with the provisions further set forth in this section

All additional or supplemental lights including movable spotlights or searchlights shall fully comply with these restrictions and the rays of light from any such searchlight or spotlight shall at no time extend to the left of the center of the highway

Every motor vehicle while standing upon any public highway at such times as lights are required by the provisions of this section for such motor vehicles may in lieu of the lighting equipment specified in this act show one light of at least two (2) candlepower carried on the left side of car in such a manner as to be visible to the front and rear and so as to show white to the front and red to the rear shall be considered a full compliance with the terms of this clause

No red light shall be displayed on the front of any motor vehicle

The State Highway Commissioner may after laboratory test in conformity with standard specifications approve certain devices for controlling the front lights on motor vehicles so that they shall comply with the provisions of this section upon the payment of such fee as he may deem necesary to cover the actual cost of such tests not to exceed the sum of fifty ($50) dollars and may issue a certificate to the applicant describing the device and certifying that such tests have been made and that the device when properly applied complies with the requirements of this act

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 695.

An Act to amend section two of an act approved the twentieth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and twenty-one) entitled "An act providing for the imposition and collection of certain taxes upon the transfer of property passing from a decedent who was a resident of this Commonwealth at the time of his death and of property within this Commonwealth of a decedent who was a non-resident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death and making it unlawful for any corporation of this Commonwealth or national banking association located therein to transfer the stock of such corporation or banking association standing in the name of any such decedent until the tax on the transfer thereof has been paid and providing penalties and citing certain acts for repeal"

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requsted.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 2, page 3, line 15, by striking out the word "two" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "three"; amend line 25, by striking out the word "ten" and insert in lieu thereof the word "eight"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, this bill imposes a tax on decedent estates. It was passed by the House of Representatives with a tax of two per cent. on direct inheritance and ten per cent. on collateral inheritance. It comes back with three per cent. on direct inheritance and eight per cent. on direct inheritance and ten per cent. on collateral in-that we had on this subject and the very large interest that was shown in it by a large membership of the House, I now move that the House do non-concur in the Senate amendments.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia has asked you not to concur in these amendments. I ask you to concur in the amendments and will give the reasons. When you amended the bill some time ago after it was defeated for a direct tax of five per cent. and a collateral inheritance of seven and one-half per cent., we brought it back to two per cent. on direct inheritance and ten per cent. on collateral inheritance. Now the Senate, upon examination of the finances of the State and of the needs of this bill to support this program which we have entered into, finds that rate we fixed is not adequate. Let me say to you in all candor that direct inheritance pays more into the State Treasury than collateral inheritance. You will see by reference to the sheet which was given you some weeks ago by the Auditor General's office the large difference in favor of direct inheritance. Now the Senate has amended this bill by increasing the direct inheritance one per cent. They have decreased the collateral inheritance from what we had it at ten per cent., to eight per cent. The result is that we will be able to get about nine million dollars a year out of the bill as it is now amended. We have practically placed in jeopardy to-night one revenue raiser. We may never see it again. The Conference Committee may not agree on the point and we lose that large revenue for this program which we have undertaken for the benefit of our people. If we strike this one down we can absolutely depend upon it that we may go home and say, "Why we put through the big school program; we put through the National Guard program; we put through the Forestry program," but those people back home are not fools enough to listen to that statement, they would have you know that the proof of the pudding is in the eating. This does not do any particular injury to any person for the reason that a tax increase of one per cent. means one cent out of a dollar. On large estates it is true it amounts to a great deal, on small estates it may seem like a great deal but remember we are increasing the present law one per cent. and remember we do not tax the gross in an estate but tax the net, after deducting those expenses allowed by law, so that the tax is an exceedingly small amount on inheritance. We must also remember that we have pending now for passage and vote by the people an amendment to the Constitution which will give us a graded tax. At the present time we cannot do it, and I do not think there is a man in this House if we could vote on such a measure in the next Legislature who would support it, but until the people vote on that, we have got to vote to pass measures of this kind. Now then gentlemen let us be reasonable, let us do what the other great states in this Union have done, and see if we cannot justify our position. It is true that they have in these states a law that permits a graded tax, we do not. Take the State of New York there the direct inheritance tax, being the graded tax runs from one to five per cent. and the collateral inheritance from five to eight per cent. In the State of Massachusetts the direct inheritance runs from one to ten per cent. and collateral inheritance runs five to ten per cent. In the State of California the direct inheritance tax runs from one to fifteen per cent. and the collateral tax from five to thirty per cent. In the State of Illinois the direct inheritance is from one to seven per cent. and the collateral inheritance from five to fifteen per cent. I submit if we compare our records with the records of other large populated states throughout this Union, we can put this tax on and our people will not in the end complain about it because immediately the people vote upon the joint resolution to enter into a graded tax, then the Legislature right after that will introduce and pass a graded tax and the present indication is that they will exempt all estates of five thousands dollars and under from the payment of any tax. Now doesn't that seem reasonable that as a temporary measure to take care of our great program of mprovement throughout this State with all these things we have considered and passed and going over to the Senate and Governor that we should at this time consider the smallness of this increase and take care of the Executive progam, and see that this bill becomes a law.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I hope that you do not concur in these amendments. Two per cent. is entirely too much to pay. If you would pass through the various offices in the court house where these taxes are collected, if you will vote for this amendment you ought to bow your head in shame to take the money away from the poor widows and the poor orphans. Ever since 1917 I have bowed my head in shame because I voted for that particular bill, and I hope that the gentlemen of this House will not support this amendment. This bill passed the House and we consented to two per cent. on direct inheritance and ten per cent upon collateral inheritance. I think it is no more than just that if there is any collection to be made that it should be made from the collateral end. Does a brother or sister, aunt or uncle, niece or nephew whatever it may be, do they work for any portion of the estate that is left behind? Who is the one that suffers under the direct inheritance tax? The poor widow, who in many cases is forced to go to the wash tub to take care of the poor orphan children. There is not a school teacher in this State who would take a dollar away from any widow or any orphan, and I defy any man to say that the school teachers to-day want revenue of this character. I hope that the House will vote down this measure.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON HOUSE BILL NO 1431.

Mr. FITZGIBBON. Mr. Speaker, I call up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1431, File Folio No. 7327.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the report of the Committee of Conference.

The Clerk read the report as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1431.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen: The Committee of Conference to which was referred the differences existing between the two Houses on House Bill No. 1431, entitled "An act to rgulate the drilling, operating and abandoning of oil and gas wells and providing a penalty for violation of the provisions of this act," respectfully beg leave to submit the following amended bill as our report:

MARSHALL PHIPPS,
FRED A. SERVICE,
W. D. CRAIG,
Committe on the part of the Senate.

J. A. FITZGIBBON,
WILL W. JONES,
GEO. I. WONER,
Committe on the part of the House of Representatives

An Act to regulate the drilling operating and abandoning of oil and gas wells and providing a penalty for violation of the provisions of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That upon abandoning or ceasing to operate any well or wells which shall have been drilled or put down on lands within this Commonwealth for the purpose of exploring for or producing oil or gas the person firm or corporation drilling or owning the wells shall plug said wells in the following manner First fill up the well with rock sediment to a point twenty (20) feet above the top of the lowest oil or gas bearing strata or formation encountered and drive a round seasoned wooden plug at least three (3) feet in length equal in diameter to the diameter of the well below the casing and shall in like manner keep plugging and filling until all producing sands have been plugged when a final plug must be anchored approximately ten (10) feet below the bottom of the largest casing and filled in with such an amount of rock or rock sediment that may be necessary to completely shut off any water bearing sands or strata said fill however shall in no event be less than thirty (30) feet in depth All plugs used in said wells shall be well seasoned round wooden plugs of the diameter of the well at the point at which said plug shall be located they shall be at least three (3) feet in length and the lower end thereof tapered for a distance of eighteen (18) inches In abandoning any well which has been drilled through marketable coal after the inside casing has been drawn there shall be placed a two (2) inch vent pipe extending from a point thirty (30) feet below the coal bed for a distance of eighty (80) feet in height said pipe to be encased in cement after which the outside casing may be drawn

Section 2 Whenever the production of any gas well is not sufficient in the estimation of the owner to justify leaving the casing or casings in the well the well may be utilized through tubing placed on a packer and after cement and sand has been poured on the packer to a depth of not less than ten (10) feet the casing or casings may be pulled and the hole outside of the tubing filled with sand cement rock sediment clay or other material to a point at least thirty (30) feet above the highest producing sand so as to completely shut off all water from the various sands after which the casing may be drawn Upon the abandonment of such gas well if a plug or bridge shall be placed in the tubing at a point near the depth at which the packer was set and cement and sand poured in on said plug or bridge to a depth of not less than thirty (30) feet it shall be held a compliance with the provisions of this act relating to plugging and abandoning of wells

Section 3 The owner or operator of any well or wells which produce oil or gas from the strata known as the "Bradford Sand" "Kane Sand" and "Haskel Sand" shall be permitted to allow such wells to remain open for the purpose of introducing air gas water or other liquid pressure upon said "Bradford Sand" "Kane Sand" and "Haskel Sand" for the purpose of recovering the oil and gas contained therein provided that the introduction of such pressure of air gas water or other liquid into said "Bradford Sand" shall be through casing or tubing which shall be so anchored and packed that no other oil or gas bearing sand above or below said "Bradford Sand" "Kane Sand" and "Haskel Sand" shall be affected by the introduction of such pressure

Section 4 The owner or operator of any well productive of oil gas in paying quantities shall have the right to give written notice to any other owner or operator who may be about to drill or may be drilling a well within one (1) mile of said productive well that the well about to be drilled or being drilled will penetrate the same sand or strata as that from which said productive well obtains its production and said owner of the well being drilled or about to be drilled shall case off all water found therein in case said water cannot be bailed out of the hole while drilling with the use of an extension bailor after the service of said notice so as to prevent the entry of said water into the sand or strata from which the oil or gas is obtained in said oil or gas well No such notice shall be of any effect unles given before the sand to be protected shall have been penetrated by the well about to be drilled or at the time being drilled

Section 5 The wilful permitting of any oil or gas well to remain uncapped or the wilful opening of any value to admit air in a gas pumped territory in which the gas pressure is less than atmospheric pressure is declared to be a misdemeanor and is hereby prohibited and in case any well in such territory is opened for the purpose of cleaning repairing drawning tubing drawning rods abandoning et cetera the same must not remain open continuously for a longer period than twelve (12) hours unless work in connection with cleaning et cetera is being conducted more than twelve (12) consecutive hours

Section 6 Any person firm or corporation or the agents thereof who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine not to exceed one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars or undergo an imprisonment not to exceed one (1) year The fine imposed under this section shall be applied to the use of the school district in which such well may be situated

Section 7 Whenever any owner or operator shall neglect or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act the owner of or operator upon any land adjoining or contiguous thereto that upon which such violation may occur may enter take possession of said abandoned well and plug or cap it as provided by this act and recover the expense thereof in an action or tort against the owner or operator whose duty it may have been to comply with the provisions of this act

Section 8 The following acts of Assembly are hereby repealed The act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (Pamphlet Laws fifty-six) entitled "An act requiring owners and operators of oil lands to plug their wells so as to shut off all fresh water from the oil bearing rock and to exclude the oil and gas from the fresh water before abandonment and providing a penalty for neglect to perform the same" the act approved the tenth day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-one (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and ten) entitled "An act regulating the mode of plugging abandoned oil wells and providing a penalty for the violation thereof" the act approved the twenty-third day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and forty-five) entitled "An act to protect oil gas and water wells tanks pipes and machinery connected therewith and to prevent wilful and malicious injury thereto" and sections twenty and twenty-two of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of May one thousand eight hundred eighty-five (Pamphlet Laws twenty-nine) entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of natural gas companies" and all other acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 27, 1921.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed the following resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives recalling from the Governor House Bill No. 965, File Folio 1971, entitled: "Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 965, Printer's No. 333, File Folio 1971, entitled 'An act to amend section six of an act approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteenth, (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and seventy), entitled "An act to amend, revise and consolidate the law providing for the burial of certain honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines at the expense of the counties in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death; to provide a system for effecting the burial of such soldiers, sailors and marines; to provide headstones and markers for the graves of such soldiers, sailors and marines, and to authorize the county commissioners of the several counties to purchase plots of ground for the burial of such soldiers, sailors and marines,"' be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment".

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

WM. C. SPROUL.

Mr. BARNHART. Mr. Speaker, I move that the communication from the Governor together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 719, as follows:

An Act for the burial of certain persons who are have been or shall be soldiers sailors or marines designated as deceased service men" defining the term "deceased service man" and authorizing county commissioners to provide headstones markers and burial plots for such deceased service men at the expense of the county in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the term "deceased service man" as used in this act shall be defined and construed to mean and include any soldier sailor marine or members of the enlisted nurse corps having a legal residence within their county who has died or shall hereafter die anywhere within or without the United States while in the service of the United States in the military naval or other branch of the combative forces of said United States during any war in which the United States has been or shall hereafter be engaged or where a state or condition of war has existed or shall hereafter exist in the United States or any foreign country or territory or upon the high seas or of any honorably discharged soldier sailor or marine who served or who shall hereafter serve in any such combative force of the United States during any war in which the United States has been or shall hereafter be engaged or who has served or shall hereafter serve in any such combative force of the United States where a state or condition of war existed or shall hereafter exist in the United States or any foreign country or territory or upon the hgh seas or who was in active service in the militia of the State of Pennsylvania under and in pursuance of any proclamation issued by the Governor during the Civil War and duly mustered into the service of the United States and has been or hereafter shall be honorably discharged or relieved from such service and shall hereafter die within their county or shall die beyond their county and shall have a legal residence within their county at the time of his death

Section 2 The county commissioners of each county in this State are hereby authorized and directed to expend the sum of seventy-five dollars ($75.00) toward the funeral expenses of any such deceased service man Provided however That such county commissioners shall not contribute any moneys toward the funeral expenses of any such deceased service man where the total expense of any such funeral including said allowance of seventy-five dollars ($75.00) shall exceed three hundred dollars ($300.00)

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the county commissioners of each county in this State to draw a warrant upon the treasurer of their county in the sum of seventy-five dollars ($75.00) for each body buried in accordance with the provisions of this act to be paid out of the funds of the county and such warrants shall be made payable only to the person or persons who shall have buried the bodies for which the warrants are to be so drawn

An Act to amend section five of article twenty of an act entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" approved the twenty-fifth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nineteen

BILL DROPPED FROM THE CALENDAR.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: Just a word of explanation concerning the motion which I am about to make. The motion is in reference to Senate Bill No. 1328, which is an amendment to section five of article twenty of an act entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth." In other words it is an amendment to the city charter of Philadelphia. During the session of 1919 an act was passed changing the government of the city of Philadelphia, and one provision of the act related to municipal street cleaning. There happened to be one word used in the act which to some people appeared to be rather vague, and it was for the purpose of clarifying that word that the bill was introduced by Senator Aron known as Senate Bill No. 1328.

Members of the Charter Committee who worked very zealously in preparing the charter which was enacted into law were opposed to this amendment in this particular act, and after consulting with them, and having received the following telegram which I will read, I resolved to make a motion to drop the bill from the calendar. The telegram is as follows: "Philadelphia, Pa., April 27, 1921, 4.46 p. m.

Hon. Edwin H. Vare,

Harrisburg, Pa.

Charter Committee and all our people absolutely opposed to the Aron bill amending the charter, and hope you will do what you can to defeat this bill."

In view of this telegram, Mr. Speaker, and in view of the fact that they are opposed to it, I move that the bill be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. CONNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 932, (Senate Bill No. 355), entitled:

An Act authorizing the cities of this Commonwealth to regulate or prohibit and prevent the use and sale of fireworks firecrackers sparklers and other pyrotechnics and the unnecessary firing and discharge of firearms in or into the highways or other public places of such cities

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the cities of this Commonwealth be and they are hereby authorized to regulate or to prohibit and prevent the sale and use of fireworks fire-crackers sparklers and other pyrotechnics in such cities and the unnecessary firing and discharge of firearms in or into the highways and other public places thereof and to pass all necessary ordinances regulating or forbidding the same and prescribing penalties for their violation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 5, by striking out after the word "regulate" the words "or to prohibit and prevent"

Also amend section 1, line 6, by striking out after the words "sale and" the first two words on said line

Also amend section 1, line 10, by striking out after the word "regulating" the words "or forbidding"

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, May I inquire who offered the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Dawson.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I tried my very best to get the purport of the amendments offered. As I understand it, Mr. Speaker, they would absolutely eliminate the feature of this bill most important, that is, giving the municipalities the right to regulate and even prohibit the sale of fire crackers and other such pyrotechnics which a municipality may deem injurious and dangerous. For that reason I am opposed to the amendments.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to second the piont of view which has just been expressed by my friend from Philadelphia. It seems to me that the amendments would simply ruin the purpose of the bill. Therefore, I am opposed to the amendments.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith the extent of such inconsistency be and the same are hereby repealed

The title was read as follows:

An Act authorizing the cities of this Commonwealth to regulate or prohibit and prevent the use and sale of fireworks fire crackers sparklers and other pyrotechnics and the unnecessary firing and discharge of firearms in or into the highways or other public places of such cities

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title by striking out after the word "regulate" the words "prohibit and prevent"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the title?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1529, (Senate Bill No. 34), entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1790, (Senate Bill No. 553), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of an act approved the third day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (Pamphlet Laws sixty-two) entitled "An act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of a Home for Disabled and Indigent Soldiers and Sailors of Pennsylvania" as amended

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1750, (Senate Bill No. 1008), File Folio 4489, on page 47 of today's calendar, be made a special order of business at this time.

Mr. CLUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1750, (Senate Bill No. 1008), entitled:

An Act to fix the number of Representatives in the General Assembly of the State and to apportion the State into Representative Districts as provided by the Constitution

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I shall have to ask you to oppose this bill. It surely is our prerogative to prepare a bill on such a subject, and the first we heard of it is when it came from the Senate where it was prepared. We had no chance to appear before the Committee on the subject or to propose anything on the subject. I came up to Harrisburg on Monday evening loaded with amendments to present them to the Committee on this bill. I could not find the Committee, no Committee met, and at midnight it was brought into the House in the rump session, as it is called. These amendments were not presented to the bill on second reading, but now on the bill's final passage I shall have to oppose this bill, and ask every one in the House to oppose it. Now down in Berks County where I come from we do everything on the level and honest. I ask this House to do the same thing and vote against this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be varified.

The roll was verified as follows:

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask somebody to explain to me what status the passing of this Congressional Apportionment Bill would have in the event that the Congress now sitting at Washington should reduce its membership and thereby reduce the number of congressmen elect in the State of Pennsylvania. I am informed by one of the congressmen who was in the House this morning that at this time Congress has not yet set the number of men that may be in the next Congress. Therefore, I cannot see the wisdom why this House should go on and pass a bill when there is nothing definite as to what the action might be. If in the event the number of congressmen were reduced, I am informed in that event every congressman in Pennsylvania at the next election primary in May would have to be elected at large. And if the number is increased then the sitting members of the district would be the same, but the number of congressmen at large would be increased. So, therefore, I cannot see the wisdom at this hour of taking up the time of this House and passing this bill.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House; the status would be exactly the same whether Congress reduces the amount or otherwise. We are bound by the Constitution of this State to reapportion the State after each census, and it seems to me that if we are performing our constitutional duty this bill should prevail and we ought to vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Mr. ARMSTRONG. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1760, (Senate Bill No. 1010), File Folio 4507, on page 47 of today's calendar, be made a special order of business at this time.

Mr. CURRY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1760, (Senate Bill No. 1010), as follows:

An Act providing for the valuation and assessment in counties of the second class of all property of every kind and description and all occupations taxable for county school borough and township purposes creating a county assessment board for that purpose providing for the payment of the entire expense thereof by such counties prescribing the duties of the several county officers in respect thereto and abolishing all existing offices and boards having to do with the valuation and assessment of such taxable property and occupations in such counties school districts boroughs and townships

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of making uniform assessments and valuations on all property made liable to taxation in counties of the second class for county school borough and township purposes and simplifying the procedure relating thereto there is hereby created in counties of the second class a board to be known as the "County Assessment Board" Said board shall triennially hereafter make the assessments and valuations of all property of every kind and description real personal and mixed and all occupations made taxable for county school borough or township purposes in counties of the second class

Section 2 Said board shall consist of one member from each senatorial district of such county as now or hereafter established At the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one and at the first municipal election at least sixty days after any county shall have become a county of the second class and quadrennially thereafter the qualified electors of each senatorial district of every county of the second class shall elect one member of said board for a term of four years from the first Monday of January following on which date the members of the board shall meet and organize Any vacancy however caused happening more than sixty days before and municipal election shall be filled at such election for the balance of the term of the member or members whose vacancy is filled

Section 3 The members of said board shall have been residents of said county for at least five years prior to the date fixed for the taking of office and they shall reside in said county during their term of office and shall not hold any other office position or employment under the United States the State of Pennsylvania or any county city borough township or school district therein during the term for which they are elected except that a notary public commissioner of deeds officer in the National Guard of Pennsylvania officer or director in any National or State Bank or trust company or membership on any commission for public works or improvements where such employment is without pecuniary commission

Any member of said Board who has any personal or private interest in any property to be valued or assessed shall disclose the fact to the other members of said board at a duly held meeting thereof and shall not participate in the making of the assessment and valuation thereof Any member violating any of the provisions of this section shall thereby forfeit his office

Section 4 The members of said board shall receive for their services during their term of office an annual salary of six thousand five hundred dollars each payable from county funds in the county treasury in monthly or semi-monthly installments The assessors shall also between the triennial assessments in all cases where it is apparent that any assessment is not in accord with the generality or uniform standards of assessments revise and correct the same by increasing or decreasing the same where the value of the property or subjects of taxation assessed do not conform to the generality or uniform standard of assessments Provided however That if such revision or correction of such assessment shall increase the amount thereof the owner of such subjects of taxation whose assessment has been so increased between the triennial assessments shall be given at least ten days written notice of such revision or correction and have the right of appeal to the court of common pleas in the same manner as provided in section eleven of this act

Section 5 The several members of said board are hereby authorized to administer the oath or affirmation to any person or officer taking any appeal from any assessment or testifying as to any matter or thing connected with the assessment and valuation of any property or making any returns thereof but no charge shall be made by any member of said board for any such oath or affirmation Any person or officer who shall wilfully and corruptly make a false or fraudulent affidavit or affirmation shall be guilty or purjury and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or undergo by separate and solitary confinement at labor not exceeding seven years thereupon shall be forever disqualified from being a witness in any matter of controversy

Section 6 Said board shall divide the county into convenient districts and shall appoint such district assessors clerks and assistants as may be necessary to conveniently and faithfully perform the duties imposed upon said board The persons so appointed shall receive such annual or monthly salary or other rate of compensation payable in equal monthly or semi-monthly installments as may be fixed by the proper county officers in the manner prescribed by existing law or laws hereafter passed for the fixing of salaries and compensation of county employes

Section 7 The district assessors so appointed shall make preliminary assessments on all property of every kind and description real personal and mixed and all occupations taxable for county school borough or township purposes in their respective districts Such assessments shall be made triennially and shall be filed with the county assessment board on or before the first Monday of July of each year

Section 8 The county assessment board thereupon shall examine and revise the said valuations and assessments so made increasing or decreasing them as said board may deem just and proper or by adding thereto or eliminating therefrom any property or subjects of taxation that may have been omitted removed or destroyed After such revision the county assessment board shall by resolution duly adopted by said board fix such convenient times as may be necessary for the purpose of hearing appeals taken from such assessments and valuations After hearing of such appeals and the making of such changes as said board may deem necessary and proper the assessments and valuations so ascertained and determined shall stand as the assessments and valuations for the property and occupations taxable for county school borough or township purposes until the next triennial assessment and valuation thereof unless the same shall be lawfully changed on appeal therefrom in the manner hereinafter provided in which event the valuations and assessment so made shall be changed to conform to the appeals taken therefrom as finally determined in the manner provided by law

Section 9 The district assessors shall between the triennial assessments revise any assessments or valuation according to right and equity by correcting errors and by adding thereto any property or subject of taxation which may have been omitted or any new property or subjects of taxation which may have come into being since the last triennial assessment

They shall also add thereto the names of any persons who may have moved into such district and strike therefrom the names of any persons who have removed from such districts since the last trinnial assessment

The assessors shall also revise assessments and valuations between the triennial assessment by increasing or decreasing the same where the value of the property or subjects of taxation assessed or valued has changed by reason of any change of conditions thereon or adjacent thereto or in the vicinity thereof or for the reason that the property assessed or valued has been subdivided or laid out into a plan of lots or other subdivision or for the reason that improvements have been placed thereon or added thereto or for the reason that any public or other improvement has been made adjacent thereto or in the vicinity thereof or where for any other reason whatsoever the value of the property has changed and it seems to the board necessary and equitable to make a change in the valuation thereof

All assessments required to be made by the district assessors in the years between the triennal assessment shall be returned to the board not later than the first Monday of November

Section 10 Said board or their duly authorized employes shall on the request of any taxpayer furnish such taxpayer with a statement of his taxable property and the valuations and assessments placed thereon

Section 11 Any taxpayer dissatisfied with the valuations placed on his property by said board may appeal therefrom in writing to said board setting forth wherein said assessment or valuation is improper inequitable or excessive and shall be entitled to a hearing by said board a majority of whom shall be a quorum for that purpose

Appeals so taken shall be heard and decided promptly thereafter and any person aggrieved thereby shall have a right to take an appeal to the court of common pleas of such county in the manner provided by existing laws or laws hereafter passed for that purpose It shall be the duty of the court of common pleas to promptly hear and determine all appeals so taken and to make such changes in the valuations or assessments so made as may be just and equitable

Section 12 Notice of the time and place when appeals shall be heard by the County Assessing Board shall be given by publication in two newspapers of general circulation throughout such county printed in the English language twice a week for two consecutive weeks immediately preceding the time fixed for the first appeals

Section 13 All taxes levied for county school borough or township purposes shall be based upon the valuations or assessments so made by said board It shall be the duty of such board to furnish copies of the respective valuations and assessments duly certified to the corporate authorities of the county and of each school district borough or township therein

Section 14 In making the assessments and valuations of property said board shall separately value the lands and the buildings thereon and shall certify the same as those assessed to the proper corporate authorities together with the aggregate valuation of all property and other subjects of taxation so valued and assessed

Section 15 The present Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes in such counties and all other county borough school district or township officers board or departments charged with the making of assessments and valuations under existing laws shall be and the same are hereby abolished it being the intent of this act to vest in said County Assessment Board the sole and exclusive power of valuing and assessing property and occupations made taxable for county school borough and township purposes

Section 16 This act shall not axect any valuations or assessments heretofore made under existing laws and shall not effect or in any wise invalidate any taxes based thereon Such laws for this purpose shall continue in existence The assessments made under existing laws shall remain and continue until new assessments and valuations shall be made by said board of assessment in conformity with the provisions of this act

This act shall not go into effect as to the election of the members of said board prior to the first Monday of January one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two

Section 17 All acts or parts of acts general local or special inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

This act does not change the provisions of any acts of Assembly fixing the rate of taxation to be charged upon the several kinds of taxable property occupations or other subjects of taxation for county school district borough or township purposes

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendment in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1599, (Senate Bill No. 360), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Cottage State Hospital of Philipsburg Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2 (two) line 7, by striking out all of said line after the word "necessary", and all of lines eight, nine, ten and eleven.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendment will be made in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. This amendment is merely a strike-out and the bill is still under consideration.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1785, (Senate Bill No. 1343), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings to carry into effect the provisions of an act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand forty-nine) entitled "An act authorizing the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings to erect a soldiers and sailors' memorial bridge with the approaches thereto and memorial pylons in the city of Harrisburg to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors of the Commonwealth providing for the letting of contracts therefor providing for a proportion of the cost to be paid by the city of Harrisburg and public service corporations using or affected by the building of said bridge providing for acquiring any property necessary by eminent domain giving the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings the right to sell a portion of the land to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to conform to the plans of the architect providing for the maintenance of said bridge and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of this act"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1921 — 124th of the General Assembly

VOL. 6. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1921 NO. 55

SENATE

THURSDAY, April 28, 1921.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Benjamin Bungard, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth. We humbly bow before Thee this morning in recognition of Thy care and keeping, and invoke Thy blessing upon our gathering, and help us to be mindful of the fact since we have approached the last day of this legislative session, as we leave these halls, that Thy blessing may go with everyone and that Thou wilt preserve and keep us, and we are sensed with two great facts, one is with the fellowship and the brotherly love that has been kindled in our commingling and working and serving our great Commonwealth together, and as we depart it may be that these will not be gathered again in the future as at the present, but we pray our Heavenly Father that Thy kind and keeping care may be upon all. Our Father we pray Thy blessing upon our great State and our Chief Executive and all the servants of our great Commonwealth. Help us to be grateful to our friends and forgiving to our enemies. And now may Thy Blessing rest upon all; may the Lord make His face to shine upon thee; may the Lord be gracious unto thee; may the Lord give thee peace. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. JONES, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, the bill we are now having under consideration is "an act creating a State Fair Commission for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, defining its duties and making an appropriation therefor." Mr. President, in behalf of the sixty odd agricultural societies and fairs now existing in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I will oppose this bill. There are at the present time sprinkled throughout the state sixty odd agricultural societies having annual fairs. I myself am a member of the executive committee of one of them. I do not pretend to know much about the matter, but I know something about the workings of these agricultural societies. The Allentown Fair is upwards of sixty years old. It is run entirely on a non-beneficial basis. All the income, all its revenue, stays in the treasury of the society for its improvement and its advancement. Not one cent of dividend was ever paid by our agricultural society. All the moneys stay right in the treasury and are used for the purposes of agriculture for which the society was founded. This bill starts very innocently. It starts with an appropriation of only $15,000, authorizing the appointment and creation of a commission to look about for a site and to launch the project of a state fair. If this were all that was in the bill it would not mean much and there would not be much harm in it, but it is only the beginning of a project which will have tremendous influence and effect in the Commonwealth upon the agricultural societies in the state to-day. We have no idea, of course, no knowledge at the present time, as to where this state fair would be located. We do not pretend for a minute that this state fair would wipe out all the smaller fairs throughout the Commonwealth, but it would have a very deteriorating effect and it would wipe out quite a large number of those within a large radius by the location of this state fair. Let us assume for a minute that this state fair would be located in the vicinity of Harrisburg, in Dauphin County. I say to you gentlemen that it would have a very deteriorating effect upon the fairs of Byberry, York, Lancaster, Reading and Allentown, and all the fairs within a reasonable radius of wherever this state fair would be located. I am not opposing the bill simply because it is a State fair, but I am opposing it because I am convinced that it would not be to the best interests of the agricultural interests of the Commonwealth. In our opinion it would be far better to foster and encourage agricultural societes all over this Commonwealth than to build up one large fair in a centralized spot, and no fair could compete with a State fair backed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with all its resources and all its influence and power. We have at Allentown an agricultural society at a place where we hold an annual fair, in which there is an investment of a million of dollars. We have a grandstand costing two hundred thousand dollars, yet we could not for a minute compete in spite of the fact that all the income and revenue annually goes to the upbuilding of the society. We could not for a minute compete with a State fair, backed and fostered by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It has been said that the State Grange was backing the State fair. I know that some of the officers of the State Grange are supporting this measure, but the great rank and file of the State Grange are not supporting this measure, because we have some on our board at Allentown. We have some of the strongest and most influential Grangers who are just as strongly opposed to this bill as anybody else in the Commonwealth. I attended a meeting a short time ago of the officers of the State Fair Association and we are looking forward with a keen eye upon the bad effects such as this bill would have upon the numerous societies throughout the state. What would it mean at the present time wherever a fair is located? It is supported by the farmers of all ranks, the rich and the poor in the communities in which they are located. They come there with their ordinary products, their ordinary crops, and they exhibit them and they compete. A state fair in the central portion of the state would be supported by those who can afford to bring their fine cattle and their fine horses from one end of the state to the other to exhibit them at a state fair, but you could not for a minute expect the ordinary farmer who has an ordinary horse, and ordinay cattle, and odinary crops, to come here and compete with the fine cattle breeders and the fine horse breeders and all that wealth that is represented by the higher class of agriculture, and it is that element, gentlemen, that needs support; it is the element interested in agriculture that is struggling, it is the poor element, it is the common farmer that needs help and support, and if the state wants to launch into a proposition of this kind and put an investment of this kind into agricultural fair purposes, it would be much more beneficial if an annual appropriation would be made and given to these agricultural societies and help to build up that generally all over the Commonwealth than to have one centralized fair. This starts with an appropriation of $15,000, but that would grow and multiply and increase into $15,000,000, and either you would have to make one large appropriation to start this affair or you would make the appropriation in dribs by each succeeding legislature and you would go step by step and nobody could tell now when the fair would be started, when it would be launched, and you would have another proposition like the erection of a certain state institution of which I have personal knowledge, which was started on this plan, which was erected in that order, by making small appropriations at each session, and it took eleven years before the first inmate was admitted into that institution and it developed into a scandal. First the land was purchased, next the legislature provided sums of money to erect the foundations, then the foundations lay there, and then a little more money and another building was put up, and in that way the institution was erected, and as I say, it took eleven years from the time of the first appropriation until the first inmate was accepted and it created a scandal in this state, and this would be on the same order or it would take a tremenduous appropriation by the next legislature. It has been said that in due time this proposition would pay for itself. I would not deny that probably after the state has appropriated large sums of money to finance the proposition that the annual income received would meet the expense and perhaps turn a little into the State Treasury, but it certainly would be but a drop in the bucket in comparison with the original bill required to launch this project. It has also been said that in other states they are a success and that they do not have this deteriorating effect upon the agricultural societies, nevertheless the facts are they are in the states that have these state fairs, and as I have said I would not for a minute contend that it would wipe them all out, but you would wipe out certain ones within a certain radius and have a bad effect upon most of them, and I ask you, therefore, gentlemen, in the name of economy and in the name of the sixty odd agricultural societies throughout the Commonwealth to-day to defeat this bill. Would it be wise for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to make this large outlay of money for one week's exhibit, for a one week fair in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Would it be a wise policy, would it be in accordance with the program of economy such as the legislature of Pennsylvania should stand for, and as I have said before, I hope the Senators will defeat this bill.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, my distinguished colleague and friend from Lehigh has very frankly stated his opposition to this bill because of his membership on the Board of Managers of the Allentown Fair. I am not on the Board of Managers of any fair and I know that he does not speak for the forty odd fairs in the State of Pennsylvania in opposition to this measure. I have been petitioned by the county fair of the county which I have the honor to represent, asking me to vote for and support this bill, believing that it will promote an interest in agricultural societies in the State of Pennsylvania that will be beneficial instead of being disadvantageous to the local assocations now in force in many parts of the state. I am for this bill because the vast majority,—there may be other members of the Allentown Board who are Grangers that are opposed to this bill, because I know since my friend states it as a fact it is a fact, that it is a fact,—but I do know that the vast majority of the State Grangers of Pennsylvania are in favor of this measure. I happen to be a member of that organization myself and have been petitioned not only by the officers of the State Grange, but by many members of the State Grange to give my support to this bill. It is also advocated by the Department of Agriculture of the State of Pennsylvania and the amendments to the bill were prepared by the men that I regard as the most efficient Superintendent of the Department of Agriculture that the State of Pennsylvania or any other state has ever had in Dr. Rasmussen. I have absolute confidence in his knowledge and ability to direct the agriculturists of Pennsylvania in a way that will be beneficial to the agricultural classes.

Again I take exception to the proposition that this fair ground would only be occupied one week in the year. It would be occupied by the different cattle men, by very many branches of the agriculturists that now hold meetings in various parts of the State of Pennsylvania in order to promote their agricultural industry and interest and to promote the breeding of high grade cattle and stock of various kinds. I, therefore, sincerely hope that this bill may receive the approval of the Senate.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I am not on the Allentown Board nor have I any connection with any State Fair Association of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, I can say this to you, that at a meeting of the Pennsylvania State Fair Association, held in Green's Hotel in the City of Philadelphia, where delegates were presumed to be present from every county fair association throughout this Commonwealth, they made a request of me at that time that I would take my stand in the Senate and oppose this bill. A vote was taken at that time and every delegate present voted against having a State Fair Association. They made a personal request that I should vote against this bill.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Daix.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Daix, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia if he knows how many societies were represented at the meeting that he attended in Philadelphia?

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I do not know personally how many were represented, but I do know that I was informed by the Philadelphia member that a representative was present from every county fair association in the State of Pennsylvania. I was so informed by a man named Leatherman and also by the President of our Association.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I just briefly want to make this statement that it seems to me a perfectly simple proposition whether we want to have a State Fair or whether we do not, and this is a means of getting one. For the benefit of the Senator from Lehigh, in regard to the action of the State Grange, I would like to state to the Senate that at an annual meeting of the State Grange, held in the city of Allentown, the home of the distinguished Senator from Lehigh, this large gathernig, representing all the granges of the state of Pennsylvania, in this assembly voted unanimously for a resolution calling upon the State to establish a State Fair, and it will not, in my opinion, interfere with the local fair associations in the various parts of the state. I am President of one of those fair associations myself, and we are not one of the sixty which will protest against this bill, but believe it a good bill, and a worthy proposition that should be passed by the Senate.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, I am not a farmer, but I have had the privilege of having been raised where fine horses were bred. Therefore, I am interested in the subject, of tryng to do something for the farming and agricultural interests of this state in animal breeding. I would like to be able to paint a picture in a few words of the New York State Fair which it has been my privilege to attend for the last sixteen years on ten occasions, and I would say to the members of this Senate that it would pay each and every one of us to try to pick a time in the middle of the month of September to go to the city of Syracuse, and attend the State Fair in New York. It lasts but one week, and its average attendance ranges in accordance with the weather, in good weather its average attendance is over eighty thousand persons a day. They give an exhibition of a kind and character that really is astounding. Every animal, every chicken, everything that is upon the farm is there, and the competition is there. There were forty thousand chickens in the chicken exhibition and in the contest. You will find there a few thousand horses, two or three thousand cattle, and after contests on their breeding and their standing, a blue ribbon or a red ribbon, is given to the winners, and on the last day there is a parade over the race track where a person can view like a circus parade, it is the most wonderful thing a man can see. They have lecture halls, and printing presses. They have every article and instrument that is conceived by man to help to forward the question of agriculture. The greatest minds of this country are brought there for lecturing purposes, and it has no bearing on a single other county fair. The county fairs of New York State are held as they are now held in this state, and they will continue to be held. It is not every person that can travel from the western part of the state to the northern part to come to this particular location, but it will be those who are absolutely and positively interested in the welfare and future of this state, and the State of Pennsylvania is initiating by this act an institution that should have been put into existence a quarter of a century ago and longer, and every dollar that they put in here will came back to the interest of the state one hundred fold. It will not be taking anything away from any county fair. It will not interfere. It will not interfere with their dates, it will not interrupt them and they will have the same exhibits that they aways had, and their people will go there, it does not matter whether it is Beaver County, Washington County, Butler County, Allegheny County or any other county. This is a different proposition. It is to further the interests of both products, specially the cattle. It is going to furnish the butter, the milk, the cream, the cheese for the people of this state, and that is one thing that ought to promote this particular object. You are going to do something not only for the state, but for the people of the state when you pass this bill and inaugurate this system.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr Leslie, how many county fair associations there are in the state of New York to-day?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I cannot answer that, with one exception. I cannot tell you the counties, in the town of Wilson, New York, it has been my privilege to attend their annual fair, and before automobiles were so numerous, and people were unable to enjoy the luxury of automobiles, I have seen sixty thousand vehicles scattered all over the town of Wilson in the state of New York, attending the county fair in competition with the fair in Syracuse.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President the Senator from Allegheny, does not attempt to answer my question. I asked him how many county fairs there were still in the state of New York?

The PRESIDENT. I understood the Senator from Allegheny to say he did not know.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, he knows of one and that is just exactly what I have argued, that it would not wipe them all out, but it would very materially reduce the number.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I move the previous question.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Shall the previous question be now put?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

POLAND.

RESOLUTION EXTENDING TO THE REPUBLIC OF POLAND BEST WISHES FOR PROSPERITY AND HAPPINESS.

Mr. JOYCE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The chair hears none.

Mr. JOYCE offered the following resolution which was twice read, as follows:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, April 25, 1921.

Whereas, At the session of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, the Legislature of Pennsylvania did adopt resolution number seventeen B. (Pamphlet Laws one thousand two hundred tirrty-two), which is as follows:

"Whereas, A series of massacres, pogroms and outrages, unparalleled in the history of civilization for savagery and brutally, have occured in more than 120 towns and villages in Poland and Ukraine, in which innocent men, women and children of the Jewish faith were mercilessly tortured, killed and burned alive, thousands wounded, women and children ravaged, homes destroyed, and synagogues with their worshippers burned down; and

Whereas, It is reported that these outrages were countenanced by representatives of the Polish Government; and

Whereas, The people of the great United States have always condemned discrimination against peoples by reason of race, color and religion; and

Whereas, This great Republic has entered the World War for the purpose of making the world a safe place to live in, and permit and make possible for the smaller nationalities to enjoy the blessings of democratic rule; and

Whereas, American justice and fair play demand that Poland, which was greeted with hearty approval of the Jewish people upon her birth as a free nation through the efforts of America, should not deny to the Polish Jews those claims to fundanrental human rights for which for many centuries she strove; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (if the House of Representatives concur), That we condemn these unspeakable horrors and brutal outrages and atrocities, perpetrated against people who gave their life's blood on the fields of battle that freedom and equality may prevail throughout the world; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth forward a copy of these resolutions to the Congress of the United States and to the President of the United States." and

Whereas, At the time of the adoption of said resolution the Prime Minister of Poland Mr. Paderewski had requested the President of the United States to appoint a Commission to investigate such alleged pogroms, and

Whereas, The President of the United States did appoint a commission, consisting of Mr. Henry Morgantheau, Brig. Gen. Edgar Jadwon and Mr. Homer H. Johnson, to investigate Jewish matters in Poland, and

Whereas, The said commission after investigation in Poland did make two reports in which it is agreed that there is not the slightest foundation that the alleged outrages and pogroms enumerated in the aforesaid resolution, nor excesses of any kind whatsoever by the Polish Government, and

Whereas, Further the said reports disprove the existence of a "series of massacres, pogroms and outrages, unparalleled in the history of civilization for savagery and brutality," and further the said reports repudiate even a suspicion of "women and children of Jewish faith were mercilessly tortured, killed burned alive. thousands wounded, women and children ravaged, homes destroyed, and synagogues with their worshippers burned down," therefor be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania extend to the Republic of Poland its best wishes and hopes for its prosperity and happiness; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth forward a copy of these resolutions to the Minister from Poland to America, to the Congress of the United States and to the President of the United States.

Mr. JOYCE. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires concurrent resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Preident, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence

RESOLUTION REQUESTING THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TO USE THE INFLUENCE OF HIS HIGH OFFICE IN HAVING THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES GIVE FAVORABLE CONSIDERATION TO RECOGNITION OF THE REPUBLIC OF IRELAND.

Mr. JOYCE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The chair hears none.

Mr. JOYCE offered the following resolution, which was twice read, as follows:

Whereas, The electors of Ireland, by franchise, have established a Republic, and

Whereas, We believe that the peace of the world depends upon the maintenance of the principle of self-government, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, now in session, that we request the President of the United States to use the influence of his high office in having the Government of the United States recognize the Republic established by the people of Ireland.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I object to the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The chair hears objection. Does the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Long, insist upon his objection?

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I certainly do. As I understand it we would be asking the United States to recognize the present republic that has been established in Ireland regardless of the relations between the United States and England.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the committee on New Counties and County Seats.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL NO. 958.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 958.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The report was read as follows:

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDENT. The chair appoints the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Crow, and the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Hackett, a committee to escort the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, the newly elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate, to the bar of the Senate, where the oath of office will be administered by the Honorable William M. Hargest, President Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, we have the honor to present the Honorable T. Lawrence Eyre, of Chester County, the President Pro Tempore elect of the Senate, prepared to take the oath of office.

The oath was accordingly administered.

The PRESIDENT. Gentlemen of the Senate, I take very great pleasure in presenting to you your newly elected President Pro Tempore, the Honorable T. Lawrence Eyre, the Senator from Chester County.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, I regret that I do not command language adequate to express to you fully my keen appreciation and deep thanks for the honor that you have conferred upon me. I do deem it the greatest honor that can come to any man in public life in Pennsylvania to preside over this body, which I regard the greatest representative body in this country or in any other country. I recognize the responsibility that this position brings to me. I recognize fully that I cannot hope to measure up to the high standard that has been set for me by those who have presided over this body as President Pro Tempore during my seat in this Chamber, but I know that you will be considerate of my mistakes. I know that you will give me your hearty, earnest co-operation and support. I want you to know that I am one of you at all times to assist you to the fullest extent of my ability. It seems to me that we have a great deal of constructive work before us in Pennsylvania. Less than two months ago a Republican Administration came into existence in Washington on a platform of the economical administration of public affairs, and it seems to me that we of Pennsylvania should do our utmost to follow that example. I am of the opinion that the judiciary of the state of Pennsylvania has far more occupants than is required for the services that are expected of them in this state. I am of the opinion that there is in the state of Pennsylvania many overlapping departments, and I believe that during the interim between now and the next session of the Legislature of Pennsylvania that we should all give to this subject our best thought in order that we may provide legislation at the next session of the legislature that will cure any evil that exists in this direction, and that we may save to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania many thousands, yes hundreds of thousands, or millions of dollars that can be so advantageously expended for the perpetuation of the splendid school system that has been outlined in Pennsylvania by the present splendid state administration, and that we contribute to the Forestry Department to promote the Forestry interests and carry out all the good things that have been started during the administration that we have now in existence.

Again thanking you, the Senate is now ready to proceed to any business before it.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO CONDITION OF NEGROES IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows, considered and agreed to:

Whereas The condition of the negroes in the southern states in a great many cases amounts virtually to slavery and

Whereas Frequent outrages are perpetrated by the white people of those states against negroes in order to prevent the giving testimony in proceedings under the peonage laws of the United States therefore

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby urges upon the Federal Department of Justice the necessity of instituting a rigorous and exhaustive investigation of peonage in all of the southern states and the bringing to justice and punishment of all persons guilty of practicing peonage

The Secretary of the Commonwealth is hereby directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the Department of Justice of the United States

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS TO HON. WILLIAM M. HARGEST.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The chair hears none.

Mr. SMITH offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate be extended to the Honorable William M. Hargest, Judge of the Courts of Dauphin County, for his favor and courtesy in administering the oath of office to the newly elected President pro tempore, the Honorable T. Larry Eyre.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO THE HONORABLE F. E. BALDWIN.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, there has been assigned to me this morning a very pleasant duty. You know sometimes we have, so to speak, honors thrust upon us and there are times when we are only too glad to have honors come our way. I will be voicing the sentiment of every man in the Senate of Pennsylvania, and I am here on behalf of the gentlemen to present a gift to a man that we not only highly esteem and honor, but a man that we love dearly, Senator Baldwin. Born in McKean County in 1866, starting out in this world to fight his way like every honest American boy has done, first a teacher in the public schools, and then by his own endeavor, without any outside help, worked his way on until he was able to take a law course and graduate from the University of Michigan. A delegate to the National Convention twice, a man esteemed not only in his own county but throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and when his county wanted to send a man to the Senate they picked our friend Frank E. Baldwin, and sent him. Elected to the Senate in 1908, re-elected in 1916 and re-elected again in 1920. Unassuming, quiet, modest, retiring, no bluester, no bluff in Frank E. Baldwin,—those wonderful characteristics for a gentleman. Sessions may come and go, sir, and other men will follow after you, but I doubt if there will be one who will come closer to us than you have done, sir. This gift from a monotary point of view is insignificant, but it represents something more. They tell me it is sterling silver. Well, it is just like you, sir, you are sterling and you are true. In course of time even sterling silver sometimes tarnishes and it loses its glitter, but your memory, sir, will never tarnish with us, and the glitter will never become dimmed. You have been a warm friend to every one and there is no old veteran

"there are no friends like old friends." You will find those old friends will stick to you. So take this gift from us Frank, and remember we give it to you lovingly. Take it and God bless you.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President and my esteemed fellow Senators, If there have been any clouds in the sky or thorns or brambles along the way in this Session that is so near its close we can surely say with the Poet that "It is fine today", and after all it is the todays that we are living as the tomorrows will take care of themselves.

It seems to me that we have had a rather pleasant and enjoyable session and as we come to its close it is with some regret that we will not meet and greet each other with the same regularity as during the past four months. I realize for one that I am going to miss all of you. If there are better fellows that are to be found than in this Senate Chamber, I for one confess that I do not know where to look for them.

I believe with all my heart that the Senate of Penn'a is one of the most ideal legislative bodies in the world and I am proud that I have been permitted to be associated with you, my fellow Senators, as one of its members. I shall always feel that I have been most highly honored by having been selected to preside over this Senate.

But as to the particular matter before us. How am I going to express my appreciation of this splendid gift? I realize that I am not able to. It seems to me that you have been far more liberal and generous than the speaker deserves. Your gift is appreciated far beyond my ability to express to you. While it has much of intensic value, this does not mean so much but the fact of its being a gift from my fellow Senators, under the circumstances that surround it,, means every thing to me. It will be prized by my wife and self most highly as long as we shall live and thereafter kept as an heirloom by our kindred.

It will be my ambition to be worthy of the great confidence you have bestowed in me and your continued friendship and respect will be valued most highly. My sentiment might be expressed better in the lines of Sam Walter Foss:

"Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by,
They are good, they are bad, they are weak,
They are strong.
Wise, foolish, so am I.
Then why should I sit the scorner's seat
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man".

I feel that you men,who make up this Senate of Penn'a. are this kind of men and that your effort is at all times to strew gladness and goodness along the paths of men, fully realizing that we do not pass this way again.

I can only say: This beautiful gift is appreciated most thoroughly and your friendship, goodwill and respect is appreciated even more.

I trust that health, prosperity and happiness may attend each Senator of this Chamber.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL TO HONORABLE F. E. BALDWIN.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, in rising here today I realize that there are fifty men representing fifty counties in the state of Pennsylvania, with fifty different ideas, with a feeling that for their own particular district they should do the best they can and fight out the battles for their localities along the line they think best. But there are two things in this hall that all combine as one thing, and that is listening to the prayer of the Chaplain, and paying attention to the sound of the gavel. The one looks after our hereafer and the sound of the gavel means much to Pennsylvania in the hands of a proper presiding officer, and well handled it means attention and decorum. It means that men are brought to their senses to do the right thing at the right time. When we come to consider that in the handling of this gavel Pennsylvania spent fifty seven million of dollars, and in addition to that takes care of the lives and happiness of its people, we most surely must come to the conclusion that the man who handles it, if it is to be handled properly, must be the right kind of a man, and in the last President Pro Tempore we saw in the handling of this gavel a firmness that was exemplified and kindness that was dignified, the calibre of a man, such as we have seldom seen before, and it gives me great pleasure, on behalf of the Chief Clerk to hand this gavel to our former presiding officer. This silver may mean much, this silver may look good in his home and to his friends, and here I hand this over to him, Pennsylvania's destiny in the last two years, Mr. Baldwin.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President and my fellow Senators, I accept the gift in the same spirit that it has been presented and assure you that it means very much to me. Other honors have come to me but none that I appreciate more highly than that which this one signifies—to be permitted to preside over such a body as the Senate of Penn'a I deem an high honor indeed.

The gavel is an emblem of authority in the hands of a presiding officer and should be used with impartiality and fairness. As your presiding officer it has been my endeavor to use it in this manner.

To me the Senate of Pennsylvania represents one of the most ideal legislative bodies in the world and to have been found worthy of wielding the gavel, by my fellow Senators, over such a body of men is a very great honor and pleasure, the remembrance of which will never be effaced.

It has been said that symbolically the gavel might be used to divest our minds and consciences of the vices and superfluities of life, thereby better fitting us as living stones for that spiritual temple, that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.

I am sure none of us but what are better for having been associated with the men who make up the membership of this Senate. I need not say that it will always be my ambition to be worthy of such fellowship as I have found in this Senate Chamber at all times.

I can only say again that I thoroughly appreciate your friendship, support and co-operation in which you have always been so generous and magnanimous.

This gavel will be prized as long as I shall live and always associated with you, my fellow Senators, whose esteem and respect I shall continue to value most highly.

It is appreciated.

You are appreciated.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE JAMES B. WEAVER.

Mr. PATTON. Mr. President, during four sessions of this Senate I have been a member of the Judiciary General Committee and I have served in that committee under the distinguished member of Congress, Senator Clark, from Erie, and under the distinguished President Pro Tempore of this Chamber. They carried on the business of the Judiciary General Committee with great ability, and I want to say to you, sir, that it is to the Judiciary General Committee that we looked to bring out, create and build up the great concerns of the state. They have been handled in this session by the distinguished Senator from Westmoreland County, I speak of Senator Weaver; The members of the Judiciary General Committee appreciating thoroughly his ability and his dignity and his fairness, and his gentlemanly qualities, and yet with a strong hand guided this business right through the session, and it has brought out from that committee splendid results. They have procured a small testimonial, which has been accepted by him, I think, in the shape of a beautiful rug which could not be brought here, but I want to say, sir, that when his feet press that rug it will remind him that coming from each and every heart of the members of the Judiciary General Committee is the wish for him, sir, that which I know he wishes for all of us, a future of health, a future of prosperity, long life and happiness.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. President, and my colleagues of the Senate of Pennsylvania. I am reminded by what Senator Patton has said of a somewhat humorous statement I once heard the great Reverend P. C. Hansen, Pastor of the first Baptist Church of Chicago, and later of Boston. It was this; "I would rather have a little taffy while I live, than so much epitaphy after I am dead". While it is humorous it does convey a meaning underneath the surface. I think the Committee on Judiciary General has exercised splendid judgment in having this little address made to me by Senator Patton, of Philadelphia. I have regarded him, and I know the Committee regarded him, as the grand old man of the Judiciary General Committee. He is a representative of that remnant, that mighty host of the 60's, and inasmuch as Memorial Day is not now so far distant, it is born in my mind that every year they are marching slower, every year they are bending lower, every year the music stirs the hearts of older men, every year the flags above them seem to bless and love them, they are moving to the future where they will never march again. While Senator Patton is rather a young old man, he is to us the grand old man of our committee. I would not have my fellow Senators, and especially the members of my committee who have made this gift to me, think for a moment, that I am unmindful of the gift itself. It is of no inconsiderable value, and I think good judgment has been used in giving me something that will be of good use to my good wife, Mrs. Weaver, and myself, probably lasting during the years of our lives, but I am reminded that the sentiment expressed in what Senator Patton has said and the kind feeling evidenced by the gift, it was worth more to me incomparable more than ten times any gift that might have been given me here. I think that we need to encourage the same kind of things and doing the saying of kindly things and the doing of kindly things more than anything else, and just now there comes to my mind another piece of poetry which perhaps is not so good as poetry, but it undoubtedly is good sentiment:

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing
If you like him or you love him, tell him now
Don't withhold your approbation
Till the Parson makes oration
As he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow
For no matter how you shout it,
He won't really care about it
He won't know how many tear drops you have shed
If you think some praise is due him,
Now's the time to slip it to him
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

Now in closing , I want to thank you again my fellow members of the Judiciary General Committee, for this gift, and I want to thank you for something which is incomparably better and more lasting in my memory, and that is the loyalty with which you treated me during the session now coming to an end. Some person has been kind enough to say that I was a fair chairman, and if I have been, in their wisdom, at least a fair chairman, I have presided over a most unusual committee, and I think that any success I have made is due much more to the quailties of the members of that committee than anything I have been able to do.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE T. LARRY EYRE.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, long before I became a member of the Senate, I realized full well the sacrifices that any man has to make to serve his people, and wondered what compensation there could be adequate to the sacrifice they were making. I though of the long hard campaign, the nights and days spent away from home, the weariness and strain and suspense of a fight. I thought of the burden of discharging his duties after he had been elected, the hard work, the endless hours of toil, trying to please the people he was serving. I thought of the almost absolute lack of home life, loss of sleep, and often times of health, and I realized too full well that the salary he received for discharging his duties never amounted to much, and I wondered what it might be that took men into the political arena and kept them there. Mr. President, before the first session of which I was a member of this body had passed into history, I had found my answer. I knew then, and am more firmly convinced now just why we all do those things. I suppose there have been very few members of this body who very willingly stayed at home, who willingly gave up his seat here, and I understand why. Of course, to every one of us there is the self-satisfaction of having served our people well, but the man in public life who would be satisfied with the self-assurance that he has done his duty well is doomed to bitter disappointment. I have come to realize that there is an insurmountable something that keeps him here. I do not know that I can tell you what it is but I do know that comradeship, that friendliness, that comes into intimate association with the men whom we meet here means more to us than almost anything else in our lives. When the time comes that our people at home suggest to us that we ought make way for somebody else, the memory of the good fellows we have met and been associated with here, I believe, gentlemen of the Senate, will last with us longer, than our self-gratification of having performed our duties. When the time comes that we have to sit by our fireside and feed our souls on the days that have gone by, it certainly seems to me we will get a lot of pleasure out of going over in our minds the pleasant and intimate associations that we have met here. It is characteristic of this body that only the kind of men come here that we are glad to know and glad to remember after we are gone. Gentlemen of the Senate, the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in this session of the Senate, I am sure you will agree with me, is one of those men who in his chairmanship of that committee has to fill what is probably the most important post in the General Assembly. He must please forty-nine fellow members, and you know that we pester the life out of him, we are continually bothering him. He must do more than that, he must please the interests of the state, the organizations of the state that are dependent on the General Assembly for the appropriation with which they conduct their business. Not only must he please us and our constituents, but he must so wisely administer the financial affairs of his office that the prosperity of the state may continue, and that its business may expeditiously be forwarded, and that, my fellow Senators, is a man-sized job. The members of the Appropriations Committee at this session of the Senate agree that the duties devolving upon the Chairman have been performed in that manner, and as we would like to have them performed. Our Chairman has been uniformly and consistently courteous to us. He has taken us into his confidence in the things in which we were interested, has asked us to work out with him a financial policy that pleases us and our people, and at the same time that it is creditable to the committee and to the state. We think he has been succeeded well, and as a slight testimonial of the esteem in which we hold him, and in appreciation of his courtesy and kindness to us, we are presenting this slight token to our chairman, the present President Pro Tempore, the Honorable T. Larry Eyre, and we ask him to accept it in the spirit in which we give it to him, and can only say this to him, that we hope his memory of us will be as pleasant to him as our memories of him are to us.

The PRESIDENT, (Lieutenant-Governor Edward E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, and fellow members of the Appropriations Committee; my heart is touched. I am filled with gratitude to my associates on that committee. The words that have been spoken by my esteemed friend, the distinguished Senator from Beaver, have touched deeply, and are more priceless to me than all the gold contained in the United States treasury. to have been associated with the Appropriations Committee of this body was to me not only an honor but a privilege, and whatever success the Appropriations Committee has attained in this session of the legislature in the Senate, has been due to the generosity, the fairness and the magnanimity of the members of that committee. They have been loyal to the chairman, they have been just and reasonable. Each and every member of the Appropriations Committee, realizing the condition of the State Treasury, realizing the necessity for money in every direction, only asked for the minimum amount that the institutions in their districts were compelled to have. It is indeed a pleasure in the closing hours of this session, in the winding up of the affairs of the Appropriations Committee, to know that your work has been sanctioned by the members of the Appropriations Committee and the members of the Senate generally, and your work has likewise been approved in every instance, I believe, by the House of Representatives of this body. Mrs. Eyre insists in my home on having flowers on the table, whether she has anything else or not, but the fragrance of the flowers that I know will fill these beautiful vases, will come no where equal to the fragrance of the friendship of the members of the Appropriations Committee that prompted the giving of the gift to Mrs. Eyre and myself, and in conclusion, my friends, I thank you in the name of Mrs. Eyre, as well as myself, from the depths of my heart for this token of friendship and appreciation.

PRESENTATION OF TOKEN TO HONORABLE EDWARD W. PATTON.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, as we all know, the giving of gifts to the various chairmen has been the practice for some time and the chairmen of these various committees I know are thankful, but they are not expressed because it has been the custom, I have been given the honor to deviate from that custom here today. It seems that when the Honorable Frank E. Baldwin, appointed the various chairmen of the various committees of this Senate he forgot to name a certain committee, and I think, after due deliberation, that he did not forget, but he thought it was beyond his power to name the chairman of this particular committee, because after all the chairman of the committee that I am about to mention must be God Almighty Himself. It is the chairman of the committee on Brotherly Love, and Humanity, and, as a member of that committee, appionted by my fellow Senators, it becomes my duty to go out of the regular line and present a small token of our affection to another one of our members, and to this particular member it will be a surprise. There are forty-nine besides myself, and I do not believe that the particular member could pick himself at this time if he saw fit. It has been our good pleasure to associate with this particular member in this Senate, and in our association we have been able to look back into time and connect the history of this great Country of ours, from the Civil war to the present, covering a period of three wars, and there remains in this body but one member of the civil war, and that is the Honorable Edward W. Patton of Philadelphia. It has become my pleasant duty, on behalf of some of our members, to present him with a little token of our affection, and before doing that there comes to my mind, and I am going to read it to you now, a little piece of poetry. I am not going to read the whole of it because I do not want to embarass him, but it is the old piece of poetry called "boys" by Oliver Wendell Holmes, I know that the members of the Senate will agree with me that when he wrote this piece he must have had some such character as the Honorable Edward W. Patton in his mind:

"You hear that boy laughing? You think he's all fun;
But the angels laugh, too, at the good he has done;
The children laugh loud as they troop to his call,
And the poor man that knows him laughs loudest of all;

Yes, we're boys,—always, playing with tongue or with pen,—
And I sometimes have asked,—Shall we ever be men?
Shall we always be youthful, and laughing and gay,
Till the dear last companion drops smiling away?

Then here's to our boyhood, its gold and its gray,
The stars of its winter, the dews of its May;
And when we have done with our life—lasting toys,
Dear Father, take care of thy children: The Boys."

Mr. PATTON. Mr. President, and my fellow members of the Senate in my experience in this Senate I have never before seen a member so highly honored as you have honored me to-day. The Chairman of the Committees, the President Pro Tempore, the President of the Senate, the Governor of the state of Pennsylvania, have all been honored time and again; but to pick an old fellow out and so singly honor him as you have done here to-day, is indeed both affecting and very hard to answer. I know not why I should be picked out. Simply because I am the last leaf on the tree? I hope not. In fact, I may say I know not, because I believe that I have possessed the affection of every member of this Senate, and in returning my thanks for this honor, I can only say I do not know what this is, I had no intimation whatever of this, but whatever it is it shall remain with me as the choicest memento of my whole life. The members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, gathered as they are from all quarters of the State are a distinguished body the greatest legislative body in Pennsylvania, and coming as they do from those different parts of the state, there must be something big in them to have brought them here, and I want to say to you, sir, that if I were a rich man instead of a poor one, I would say very very frankly that there is no place on earth where I could be happier than being a member of this Senate. I thank my constituents for sending me here, even though the second time was against my own will, but I am here to-day, and I believe I have tried to do my duty, and knowing that I have the affection of every member of the Senate, I thank you one and all.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

SENATE BILL NO. 290 RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 290, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article three (III) of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the information that the House has passed the same with amendment, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Said amendment having been printed as required by the Constitution was twce read, as follows:

Amend section 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out the following "cities and school districts shall not be divided into more than seven classes and boroughs into not more than five classes" and insert in lieu thereof the following "shall not be divided into more than eight classes cities into not more than seven classes school districts into not more than five classes and boroughs into not more than three classes."

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—50.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Weaver will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. President, it is this. It would be a thing inconceivable and intolerable that this Senate should finally adjourn and nothing be said about W. Harry Baker and his associates at the desk. It is true they have received a great many more presents in the past than perhaps I have, but they are much more deserving in praise and presents too than I have been, and it came home to me that we would be apt to go and likely to forget. Unfortunatey my disposition has been to wait for other fellows and I calculated perhaps I had better not let it master me in this case. Take Mr. Baker as a fair representative of the class of those at the desk, I know that I would have been helpless on many occasions since I have come into this Senate if it had not been for the assistance of Mr. Baker and his associates. I have been given credit back home for things I have done and I have done them by proxy, but they have given the punch that put those matters over the top, and I think it is only fair and just, and I know you will hasten to do it and be glad, for there is not a man in this Senate Chamber, or a member of this body, who does not love Mr. Baker and his associates equally as much as I do. I, therefore, move that a rising vote of thanks be given to Mr. Baker and his associates for their inestimable services, not only to this body, but to the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair takes very great pleasure in calling upon the best asset the Senate of Pennsylvania ever had or ever will have in its history or in the memory of man, Mr. W. Harry Baker.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. President and friends, I do not know what to say after such tremenduous applause. I am sure if I have pleased you in what little I have done for you in connection with my work, it was a great pleasure for me to do it. It would not be possible for me or any person else to do what I have done unless I had good assistants. The people at the desk, the boys in the transcribing room and all the employees in the Senate have stood by me loyally and for that reason I was able to do for you what I have done, and on their behalf, as well as my own, I want to express appreciation for your kind remarks and rising vote of thanks.

HOUSE MESSAGES.

RECESS.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for one hour.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

HOUSE RECONSIDERS VOTE ON ADOPTION OF REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL NO. 958.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has reconsidered the vote by which the report of Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 958, entitled:

An Act to designate the several judicial districts of the Commonwealth as required by the Constitution and to provide for the election and commissioning of judges learned in the law for the said districts was not adopted and has referred the bill to the Committee of Conference for further consideration.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL NO. 958, CONTINUED.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 958 be continued for further consideration of the bill.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I want to say that the only difference between the Senate and the House on this bill refers to the number of judges in the Fifteenth Judicial District composed of Chester county. At the instance of myself the Senate wrote into this bill, "one judge", and the House amended it to read "two judges". I was absolutely honest and sincere in my purpose to save the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania unnecessary expenditures. I believed then and I am equally of the belief that one judge could do all the work of the Fifteenth Judicial District and have ample time for himself. In the year 1921, one of the judges from the courts of Chester County spent, according to the official records of the Treasury Department at Harrisburg, one hundred and twenty-three and one-half days outside of Chester County, for which he drew from the state, in addition to his salary of ten thousand dollars, two thousand four hundred and seventy dollars plus car-fare, one hundred and eight dollars and twenty cents, or a total of two thousand five hundred and seventy eight dollars and twenty cents. The courts of Chester County are not in session during the months of July and August. In addition to the absence of the one judge referred to from the county, the other judge in the county was on a vacation, to my knowledge, during the year 1920 for more than two months, and after his return from his second vacation in December was stricken with illness and was not in the court house from the early part of December, when he returned to his home, until the latter part of April of this year. That convinced me that there was no necessity for more than one judge in Chester County, but I realize that at this late day in the session with a disagreement on the conference report that it would be unjust and unfair of me to ask for a new Conference Committee to insist upon striking out this amendment. That could only mean that the legislature would be held here in Harrisburg to serve no purpose except a purpose personally concerning my view insofar as it relates to Chester County. After the honor and consideration that this Senate has shown to me, and after the unanimous adoption of the first report of the Committee of Conference, I am unwilling to place myself in that position and I am threfore going to sign the second report in order that the legislature might be relieved, as I want them to get away as soon as their other business is finished, accepting the amendment of the House and reserving to myself the right to present my reasons with a bill perhaps at the next session of the legislature relating to this subject.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE MESSAGES.

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO PRINTING THE JOURNAL OF THE TWO HOUSES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, April 28, 1921.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) That the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives be directed to have the copy of the Journals of the two Houses of this session prepared and placed in the hands of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding within thirty days after the close of the session, and the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is hereby directed to have the said Journals printed, bound and delivered to the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives within ninety days after the receipt of the copy therefor.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO HOLDING SESQUI-CENTENNIAL IN PHILADELPHIA IN 1926.

He also presented for concurrence extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives as follows, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1921.

Whereas, preliminary steps have been taken by the Mayor, the Council and a citizens' committee of the City of Philadelphia, to prepare for the holding in that City, in the year 1926, of an exposition to celebrate the Sesqui-centennial of American Independence, and,

Whereas, it is expected that the various states of the nation the Federal Government and all the nations of the world will be represented in this exposition, and

Whereas, it is fitting that such an exposition, international in character, following the great world war, should be held in the city of Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was signed, and where the Constitution of the United States was framed, and where the nations of the world may appropriately come together on terms of amity and enduring progress and peace,

Resolved (if the Senate concur) that the Legislature of Pennsylvania heartily approves the holding in Philadelphia, in 1926, of an international exposition celebrating the Sesqui-centennial of American Independence.

Resolved, that it is the sense of the Legislature that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should prepare for and participate in the preparations for such Sesqui-centennial celebration by making a suitable exhibit therein on the part of the Commonwealth.

Resolved further, that the Federal Government be requested to approve the holding of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1926 and that appropriate steps be taken to invite the participation and cooperation of the nations of the world.

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Federal Government and to all the States of the Union, requesting cooperative action on their part.

Ordered, That the House of Representatives be informed accordingly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO NOTIFY HOUSE THAT SENATE IS READY TO ADJOURN.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, the committee appointed to notify the House of Representative that the Senate is ready to adjourn sine die desires to report to the Senate that they have fulfilled the duties of their appointment.

The PRESIDENT. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the Senate.
